

TEMPERANCE.

The Mysterious Woman.

At a certain town meeting, the question came up whether any person should be licensed to sell rum. The clergyman, the deacon and the physician, strange as it may now appear, all favored it. One man spoke against it, because of the mischief it did. The question was about to be put, when all at once there arose from a corner of the room a miserable female. She was thinly clad, and her appearance indicated the utmost wretchedness, and that her mortal career was almost closed. After a moment of silence and all eyes became fixed upon her, she stretched her attenuated body to its utmost height, and then her long arms to their greatest length, and raising her voice to a shrill pitch, she called upon all to look upon her. "Yes," she said, "look upon me, and then hear me. All that the last speaker has said relative to temperate drinking, as being the father of drunkenness, is true. All practice, all experience declares its truth. All drinking of alcoholic poison as a beverage in health is excess. Look upon me. You all know me, or once did. You all know I was once the mistress of the best farm in the town. You all know, too, that I had one of the best, the most devoted of husbands. You all know I had fine, noble-hearted, industrious boys—Where are they now? You all know—You all know that they lie side by side in yonder churchyard, every one of them filling a drunkard's grave. They were all taught to believe that temperate drinking was safe; excess alone ought to be avoided; and they never acknowledged excess. They quoted you, and you, and you," pointing with her shred of a finger to the minister, deacon and doctor, "as authority. They thought themselves safe under such tender teachers. But I saw the gradual change coming over my family and prospects with dismay and horror. I felt we were all to be overwhelmed in one common ruin; I tried to ward off the blow; I tried to break the spell, the delusive spell, in which the idea of the benefits of temperate drinking had involved my husband and sons; I begged, I prayed; but the odds were greatly against me.

"The minister said the poison that was destroying my husband and boys was a good creature of God; the deacon (who sits under the pulpit there, and took our farm to pay his rum bills), sold them the poison, the physician said a little was good, and excess ought to be avoided—My poor husband and my dear boys tell me the same and they could not escape, (there was no Washingtons then,) and one after another was conveyed to the dishonored grave of the drunkard. Now look at me again; you probably see me for the last time; my sand has almost run. I have dragged my exhausted frame from my present abode—your poor house—to warn you all—to warn you, deacon! to warn you false teacher of God's word!" and with her arms high flung, and her tall form stretched to its utmost and her voice raised to an unearthly pitch she exclaimed, "I shall soon stand before judgment seat of God; I shall meet you there, you false guides, and be a witness against you all." The miserable female vanished—a dead silence pervaded the assembly—the minister, deacon, and physicians hung their heads, the president of the meeting put the question shall we have any more license to sell alcoholic poisons, to be sold as a beverage? The response was a unanimous, no!

LET IT ALONE, BOYS!—Let what alone? That stuff in the drunkard's bowl—let it alone. Don't ever learn how it tastes. As the serpent fascinates the bird only to destroy it, so strong drink charms at first but kills at last. The first drop may charm you, therefore don't drink the first drop. If you wish to enjoy good health, if you value a good character, if you want to be happy and make others happy, if you expect to go to Heaven, avoid strong drinks.

"Beware of the First Drop!" See your youth with iron on his hands and feet. He is in prison. Another youth, with weeping eyes is bidding him farewell, for the prisoner is about to be led out to die. He is a murderer. The law is about to take his life. But hearken! He is speaking something to his brother. What does he say? These are his words— "Remember what I told you—Let the Liquor alone!" Good reason has he for giving his counsel, liquor has brought him to the felon's doom. Let the boys heed his words—Let liquor alone!

THE OLD SADDLE SKIRT.—A certain bootmaker once thought that if he could do journeyman's work enough to pay his grog bills and keep his family from starving, it was all he need care for. Some good Son of Temperance, knowing his excellent qualities as a workman, after much persuasion, induced him to join one of the Divisions, and he was accordingly initiated.

He now began to act for himself; but his whole stock in trade consisted of an old saddle-skirt! With this he half-sold two pairs of boots. The money for this job enabled him to purchase a side of leather, and from that he has gradually increased his stock till now he owns a shop well stocked with leather and boots, and his business has so grown that, beside his own labor, he gives constant employment to several journeyman! His wife is frequently heard to exclaim, "God bless the Sons of Temperance!" and his family rejoice in the sunshine of prosperity.

THE WEEKLY PRESS. THE WEEKLY PRESS has been established on a secure and permanent foundation; but it is, in reality, a marvelous example of the degree of favor which a rightly-conducted LITERARY, POLITICAL AND NEWS JOURNAL can receive at the hands of a liberal and enlightened Public.

The general features of the Paper, in addition to its POLITICAL AND NEWS DEPARTMENTS, will be POETRY, SKETCHES, BIOGRAPHY and Original and Selected TALES, chosen for their lessons of Life, illustrations of History, depicture of Manners, and general merit, and adapted, in their variety, to the tastes of both sexes and all ages.

THE LITERARY CHARACTER OF THE WEEKLY PRESS, now universally acknowledged to be of an elevated stamp, shall not only maintain its present high standing, but shall be enhanced by important and valuable contributions from able Writers.

THE POLITICAL COURSE OF THE WEEKLY PRESS need not be enlarged upon here. Independent, steady and fearless, it has battled unwearingly and zealously in defence of THE RIGHTS OF THE PEOPLE against Executive Usurpation and Unfair and Tyrannical Legislation; ever declaring and adhering to the doctrine that POPULAR SOVEREIGNTY constitutes the fundamental basis of our free institutions, and that the intelligence and patriotism of our Citizens will always be preservative of a just, wise and salutary Government. These are the principles to which THE WEEKLY PRESS has been committed, and to these it will adhere.

A CARD.—WITMER'S BRIDGE, Lancaster Tp., July 30, 1860. MESSRS. EVANS AND WATSON: GENTLEMEN—The small size No. 1 Salamander safe which I purchased from your agent, Mr. Adam R. Bar, in Lancaster City, on July 20th, 1858, has been subjected to a very severe test, which it withstood in a most satisfactory manner. This safe, containing all my books together with valuable papers belonging to myself and some to my neighbors and friends, and representing a value of over Twenty Thousand Dollars, ($20,000) was in my Mill which was destroyed on the night of the 27th of July, 1860, and passed through the fiery ordeal unscathed. The safe was on the second floor and fell to the basement of the Mill, and was subjected for six hours to an intense heat among the ruins, which was greatly increased by the combustion of a large quantity of grain confined within the brick walls. After the fire the safe was opened and the books and papers taken out in a state of perfect preservation, the paper not even being discolored. This fact was, however, to many bystanders a better recommendation of your Safes than could be expressed in any other words from me. Yours Respectfully, [se13] SAMUEL RANCK.

A large assortment of the above quality of Fire and Thief Proof Safes always on hand and for sale at low rates as any other firm, at EVANS & WATSON'S, No. 304 Chestnut st., Philadelphia.

THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE!! We trust that those who do not now receive THE TRIBUNE will subscribe for it without delay. The club price of THE WEEKLY TRIBUNE and THE SEMI-WEEKLY TRIBUNE is so low that there are but few in any community unable to take it. Henceforth, THE TRIBUNE, as the principal paper supporting the new Administration, will be peculiarly interesting, while outside of politics its reliable Foreign and Domestic News, its Commercial and Agricultural Intelligence, and its Literary Department, give to it interest and value which no other paper on this Continent can boast of. How ably and successfully THE TRIBUNE has conducted the campaign now so gloriously ended, the result in New York fully attests, and to the untiring exertions, signal capacity and foresight of HENRY CLAY GARDNER, one of the glories of the victory and of which a nation of Freemen are now rejoicing. It is, therefore, the duty of every true Republican to aid in giving THE TRIBUNE a still larger circulation. As evidence of its popularity and reliability, we may state that last week over Six Hundred Thousand copies were sold—a circumstance unprecedented in the annals of journalism.—Guardian and Gentle Phoenixville, Pa.
