Interesting Facts and Figures concerning the recent Grand Review near Washington-The 11th Paid Off-Items.

CAMP PIERPOINT, VA., Nov. 22, 1861.

Correspondence of The Alleghanian. Nothing of interest has transpired since my last letter, barring the grand review at Manson's Hill on Wednesday. The review ground is some eight or nine miles from camp, and in order to reach it at the specified time-twelve o'clock--we were in line at six A. M. On our road thither we passed through "Bailey Cross Roads' and "Falls Church," both points somewhat celebrated as being the scene of skirmishes during the present struggle. The former derives its name from the fact that three roads cross and intersect each other there. The latter is a small village of perhaps a score of houses, the principal building being a church, which has been converted into a commissary by the Government. It is now nearly described, only some two or three families remaining .-Munson's Hill is about one mile from Fall's Church, and has been strongly fortified since falling into our possession. An observatory having been erected here by the Government, a magnificent view of Washington and Georgetown, and also of the country for miles around, is obtained. The review took place a short distance from Munson's Hill, in several large, level fields, embracing about four miles of an

The review itself was indescribably grand. There were seven divisions of the army present, viz : Gens. M'Call's, Heintzelman's, Smith's, Franklin's, Blenker's Porter's and M'Dowell's; in all eighty-five regiments of infantry, twenty batteries of artillery-one hundred pieces-and nine regiments of cavalry, forming a grand total of nearly eighty thousand men!

The different divisions were so formed as to describe a circle of four miles in extent. Gen M'Clellan and staff, accompapied by President Lincoln, Secretaries Cameron and Seward, and a large number of other distinguished personages, rode along the whole line, and were loudly they returned to the centre, and occupying a prominent position, the different divisions passed in review by battalions, M'Call's taking the lead. They were four hours passing. All the details of the review were admirably arranged, and everything passed off smoothly and withut confusion. To guard against any surprise from the enemy, the pickets were strengthened all along, and every man had one day's rations in his haversack and rty rounds of cartridge.

No passes were required during the day fer the different bridges from the capial, and it is estimated that between twenand thirty thousand persons took adintage of this fact to become spectators the grandest review that has ever taken ce on this continent. Dr. Russell, of London Times, and all the Foreign nisters were present. We returned to amp in the evening, after having been on ir feet for nearly twelve hours.

The 11th regiment was paid off on lesday. Each man received two month's ay, or twenty-six dollars. A large protion of this amount will be sent home, A. alone remitting nearly one thousdollars! We were paid partly in gold d silver, and partly in Treasury notes. We have very agreeable weather here resent, much resembling Indian Sum-

MILITARY .- We see it stated that the Penna. cavalry, Col. Harlan, has been ered to Annapolis to embark in the al expedition to sail from thence for s unknown shortly, under command of Butler. Capt. Jim Skelly's Cambria aty cavalry company forms Co. G of giment, Col. Coulter.

ADVENT OF BOREAS .- On last Sunday and Monday, we of the mountain were favored with a fall of some three or four inches of snow, thereby forming a delightful basis for operations of a tintinnabulatory nature. As long as the supply lasted, "the merrie jingle of the bells" was the order of the day as well as of the night. Everybody hereabout owns at least one horse and sleigh, and as the inducements of "the first snow of the season" are irresistible, everybody embraced the opportunity to have a good old time-all to him-"gal," as the case may be.

are in a great measure dissipated by the ting-throw up our hat for Winter!

Our Poetical Contributor, who probably took advantage of the recent favorable opportunity to breathe the bracing atmosphere of a wintry day at a 2:40 pace, furnishes the following Hyemal Habnab in honor of the occasion :

The snow! the beautiful snow! The crystallized vapor-yclept snow! Fair as the down from angel's wing, Or gossamer web-or anything!

Dreamy, delicious, delightful snow, Drop ye, like blessings, on all below: Obscuring the sky.

Likewise the trees, As onward ve fly In the swift-winged breeze-Clothing the earth in white capote, And other things doing, too num'rous to note

Oh! the snow! the snow! You know! Famously rendered per favor of Poe-dow now we glide o'er the whitening crest, Care flitting far from our bosoms, I'm blest Merrily cheery, the jubilant clang Of silvery bells float on air-g'l'lang! Oh! the snow! the snow!

Ho! ho! Great instituoshun to mortals below! drink to thee freely, my big thing on ice, In Heidsick-or lager, if such will suffice ! One favor I ask, tho',-that thy grimsome old Be broke to us gently-don't take us by Kind snow! All this, of course it is unnecessary to add, is extremely good poetry. It contains a variety of large things. It moreover is of a totally different metrical composition from anything down in the books cheered by each regiment. Subsequently In short, it is a happy originality. We are proud of it.

PERSONAL .- Col. James M. Swank, of Johnstown, having obtained the appointment of a clerkship in the Treasury Department at Washington, has resigned the office of Superintendent of the Common Schools of this county, which position he had acceptably filled since February last. We hear the names of Messrs. Henry Ely and S. B. M'Cormick, of Johnstown, and Daniel M'Laughlin, of Gallitzin, mentioned ir connection with the vacancy, but are not advised as to who has the inside

New Goods .- The attention of our and in attempting to pass from one part Annapolis en route to South Carolina readers is directed to the large and varied of the train to the other, he lost his footassortment of Winter Goods just received ing, and two trucks of the train passed at the store room of William Davis. His Dr. R. M. S. Jackson, of Cresson, this stock comprises everything likely to be onty, has also departed for the same needed, during a Winter campaign on the us, and we all expect a merry time going stination as Surgeon of the 11th Penna. Mountain. Those desirous of securing to Ebensburg, on Monday next, whether the latest etyles should call around.

A CAMBRIAN DANGEROUSLY WOUN-DED .- Many of our readers will probably recollect the battle at Cross Lanes, in Western Virginia, on or about the 27th of August last, in which the 7th Ohio regiment was repulsed with terrible loss by a vastly superior force of Rebels. Co. C of this regiment was composed principally of students from Oberlin College, Ohio, among the number of whom was Lewis J. Jones, a young man of twentythree or twenty-four years of age, son of Mr. John O. Jones, and resident about self, or to himself and wife, or to self and one mile north of this place. Lewis took part with his company in the battle, and The approach of Winter is universally in the thickest of the fight was seriously, dreaded, but when it once makes its debut, and for a time it was thought mortally. the ideal terrors with which it is clothed | wounded. Being unable to leave the field in the retreat, he was taken prisoner real pleasures and enjoyments it dispenses | by the Rebels. He remained with his Winter on the top of the Alleghanies, too, captors for over two weeks, during which is a something different from Winter any | period but faint hopes were entertained of place else. He is still an inmate of the hospital in that city. His wound, which was caused by a musketball, is located in the region of the right breast, and was exceedingly dangerous .-Thanks to a naturally hardy constitution and kind, efficient treatment, however, he is recovering as rapidly as circumstances will admit, and will be able to rejoin his regiment in the course of a few weeks.

OUR RAILROAD -The iron on the Eb. and Cresson Railroad is now laid as far as the grading extends, which is to say, to within a half mile of the Depot. Work on this latter section is also being pushed forward with all possible expedition. We believe it is the intention of the Company to commence running regular passenger and other trains on next Monday. We congratulate the officers and managers of the road, the people of Cambria county in general and Ebensburg in particular, and all other parties unto whom these presents may come, on the near completion of the enterprise Long may it wave !- a living, otherwise a moving, proof of our progressiveness and can't-be-kept-behind-ativeness! Letter From Johnstown.

Johnstown, Nov. 26, 1861.

Correspondence of The Alleghanian. The recruiting service has received fresh impulse in our midst, in consequence of Lieut. Hugh Kelly arriving here and opening an office for the enrollment of names for a company for Col. Thomas F. Meagher's Regiment. Quite an enthusiastic meeting was held at Zouave Hall, on Friday evening, and the prospect is cheering for a goodly number of recruits for the Regiment of this noble patriot.

Col. J. M. Power's Regiment, has left Camp Cameron and is now at Fortress Monroe, Va. It is said to be the finest Regiment of Pennsylvania Volunteers now in the field.

Col. J. M. Campbell's Regiment now at Camp Curtin, is nearly full, and they are expecting marching orders daily. It is understood that the following are the staff and field officers of this Regiment: Colonel-J. M. Campbell, Lt. Colonel-B. M'Dermitt, Major-John P. Linton, Chaplain-Rev. Groft M. Pile, Adjutant-Wm. Linton, Quartermaster-D. F. Gordon, Sutler-Jos. A. Garman. Mr Charles Gahegan was run over by the local freight train on the Penna. RR. on Monday morning, and seriously, if not fataliy injured. The injured man was in the employ of the Railroad Company, over him, crushing him severely.

Old Boreas with his icy reign is upon it be in sleighs, or by your railroad.
