J. TODD HUTCHINSON. Alleghanian Office, Nov. 28, 1861.

EXCURSION ON THE EB. AND CRESSON RAILROAD .- In order to afford our citizens opportunity to have practical demonstration of the completion of Our Railroad -a fact that many of them could scarcely realize, -on last Saturday excursion tickets were issued for a trip to Cresson and return. Four cars were provided to meet the exigencies of the occasion, and these were packed to their fullest possible capacity with passengers. It is estimated that not less than three hundred people -men, women and children -embraced this method to form an acquaintance with Life on Our Local Rail.

We suffered ourself to become of this lives as a testimony of their devotion to those number, and must say that we do not regret it. On the contrary, we are delighted that we are enabled, from personal observation, to chronicle the whole affair a success. Everthing worked satisfactorily of this county, was sworn into office yesas regards the road and its arrangements, terday. Although we opposed his election and everybody appeared to be in raptures on political grounds, still we are confident with the flattering fact that we at last in predicting that he will make a popular have railroad connection with the rest of the world. Not a single accident occurred to mar the festivity that prevailed.

In short: it was unanimously resolved both to himself and the county. The Thing we have been looking for, and now his retiracy: that we have it, it must and shall be -The road is located with eminent skill along the peaks and cliffs of the route, and is a credit to the engineers and contractors under whose more immediate control it was constructed. As a necessiy, there are several pretty heavy grades on it, but passengers experience as little jolting or jostling as on the Main Line It comes up to the average standard of perfection.

In this connection we may add, that a temporary sideing for freight, a locomotive shed and a water tank are being constructed at the present terminus of the road. As soon as these are completed, the cars will make this end of the route the starting point. Work on the unfinished section of the road-a distance of a half mile-is still progressing, as is also the erection of the Depot building.

DIAMOND CUT DIAMOND .- A rather good joke was perpetrated by one of our County Commissioners at the expense of his brother officials, the other day, which, without vouching for its authenticity, we herewith give our readers: On the formation of the new board of Commissioners, last week, among other things devolving upon that honorable body, it became necessary to appoint a Mercantile Appraiser for the county. As a majority of the Commissioners are Loco-Focos, of course they had the undispated say in the matter; and they determined among themselves upon a suitable man for the posish. mentary vote should be given to two or three aspirants-as a sort of "mollifier" merely, and without the slightest intention all sorts and sizes, at very low prices. of electing either of them. Matters and things being thus neatly cut and dried, ballot number one came up for consideration. The two Loco-Foco Commissioners duly deposited their "complimentary" votes, each for distinct and separate individuals; after which they probably proeeded to flatter themselves that the thing had been done and nicely. But they reckmed without their host. For at this juneure-and here the laugh comes in-the maining Commissioner, who had been nietly sitting by, and who had observed te names of the respective candidates oted for by the others, took occasion to manifest himself by casting his ballot for one of the "complimentary" candidates, thereby electing him by one majority!-This, to use a common expression, is ather a big thing on the hindmost. Faney the tempest in the Commissionerean lea-pot it would create! Fancy the offials contemplating the unexpected result burden our columns with their publication. their "complimentary!" And then phancy their pheelinks!
