The arrest of Brigadier General C. P. Stone on Saturday night, and his transfer 1) Fort Lafarette, was not unexpected by Ball's Bluff, which resulted in the massa- street. ere of the gallant Baker and his heroic band, and the manner in which he attempted to browbest Senstor Summer for crineising his military policy in the Senate, would, I think, have led to his almost ! unanimous rejection had he not been previously confirmed, at the called session, east of Thompson's Hotel. for the office of brigadier general. The immediate cause of his arrest has not been published, but it. of course, grew out of his well-known opinions and expressions. The fact is, there are too many of the officers, particularly of the regular army, who, while fighting against the rebels, do not hesitate to indulge in certain expressions of conditional and qualified patriotism. This class is composed of those who | courts of this county promptly attended to. have had intimate association with Southern society, and are well inoculated with the heresy of State Rights. They talk flippantly against Abolitionists and Black Republicans, and are particularly addicted to complimenting the rebel leaders. They forget the great issues involved in this contest, and unconsciously ignore their own duty in the premises. Happily, however, they are in a minority, even in the brave and unmurmuring men taken two doors west of Crawford's Hotel from private life, and clothed with the confidence and commissions of the Goverament, even the example of this minority could not be otherwise than injurious. The sympathizers with Secession in private life have been greatly assisted and encouraged by the example of half-hearted officers of the regular army, and it was high time for Secretary Stanton to give them such an admonition as will not tail to be effective. If ever there was a good cause, it is that in which the American army is now engaged. The blessings for which we are contending are beyond all parallel and price, and the foes we are the American uniform to hesitate, for out- Mouth. Fortunately for the future-fortunately for our rights and our race, the Administration has resolved to tolerate no man who is not entirely and heartily enlisted, for weal or wee, on the side of the American Union.

THE "STRONG MAN." -- Dr. Windship, which he says:

"In order to keep myself in good trim, physically, for instance, I have to be in the open air a certain time during the day, to inhale a given quantity of purest oxygen; or I go and set my blood in motion by lifting as near to a ton weight as I dare venture. "Wine and all fermented liquors are ruled out from my bill of fare. From what experience I have had with them, I am certain that their ultimate, if not immediate effect, has generally been to diminish my strength. I have tested this fully and repeatedly.
