FROM THE CAMBRIA GUARDS .-- We take the following extract from a private letter, dated Camp on Seminary Hill, near Alexandria, Va., March 23, 1862: "On Monday, 10th inst., at 111 A. M., we were ordered to pack up. 1 P. M. saw the Reserve, with light hearts but heavy loads, marching up the Georgetown and Leesburg turnpike, from Camp Pierpont. We followed the pike for about eight miles, then turned to the left along the Springdale road, a by-road ankle-deep with mud. Crossed the Alexandria and Leesburg turnpike about two miles above Ford's Mills; thence through woods, mud and water till 10 P. M., when we encamped on a hill above Hunter's Mill, two miles above Vienna, on the railroad. It was a very severe march, and a great number gave out. Next morning we were up and had our coffee bright and early, expecting to resume the march, reach Centreville at an early hour, and have a brush with the F. F. V's. Imagine our disappointment, then, when a despatch was received informing us that such was destined to not | C. R .- may be live a hundred years ! be the case. We laid there until Friday. At 62 P. M. commenced the retrogressive march, and marched till 10 or 11 P. M. when we encamped on a hill above Ford's Mill. It rained all night. In the morning, it was found that the creek was not fordable where the bridge had been burnt, on the L. & A. pike. Next morning we resumed the march. Took back the same road we had come until within three miles of Pierpont. At 12 M .- the rain by this time falling in torrents-we turned to the right. At 5 o'clock, we encamped in a thicket of woods along side the Alexan dria and Leesburg pike. Had marched eighteen miles, and were then about thirteen miles from Alexandria. The ground was covered with water, and, although weary and tired, but few of us slept any during the night. The rain ceased about 1 A. M. on Sunday. At 10 o'clock, we our present camp about 4 P. M. I cannot describe the march-suffice it to say, it was horrible! Mud up to the knee almost every step of the road, the rain falling in torrents, obliged to encamp on the cold, wet ground, and no covering but the little teuts we carry along! Seven men died of fatigue and exposure in the Division, but none from our regiment. The boys, as a general thing, enjoy excellent health. We expect to leave for another scene of action to-morrow-going per water-don't know where to-bave an idea -but presumptions are contraband here-

At latest accounts, the Reserves were still stationed near Alexandria.

TEACHERS' COUNTY INSTITUTE .- Excursion Tickets Issued !- We are glad to announce that the Pennsylvania Railroad, with characteristic liberality, have consented to issue excursion tickets from Johnstown and Cresson, and intermediate points, to Wilmore, good during the Institute-the 16th, 17th and 18th instant .--Teachers and others will thus be afforded a favorable opportunity to be present and participate in the exercises of the oceasion. We may add, en passant, that the Institute promises to be a decided success. Many prominent educators, among them the Deputy State Superintendent of Common Schools, are expected to be present. Teachers and others interested in the subcet of Popular Education should not fail

As IT SHOULD BE .- In consequence of the extreme state of debilitation in which the Ebensburg and Wilmore Plank Road now finds itself, the authorities of that company have seen fit to remit the tolls at both ends of the route. Those who succeed in summoning up enough courage to still attempt this high-old-way should rejoice! In this event, however, the exhilaration would hardly extend over a very large surface, for, like the mythical Jordon, the E. & W. P. R. is a "hard road to travel," and few there be who enter therein.

In short, the E. & W. P. R. is defunct!

THE QUESTION SETTLED .- On Monday evening, our City Fathers, in council met, dinary routine of duty presents nothing decided on the route for the proposed new road to the Depot. As follows: From High street south along Centre street to street running east and west past Acadeemy; westward along latter street one square to alley running north and south; thence south along said alley to Depot. This is an excellent route, and of casy access from every direction. The alley above mentioned is to be widened by the addition of sixteen feet to it. We presume the work of grading will be commenced forthwith.

PERSONAL .- Mr. Clinton R. Jones, formerly of this place, but latterly of Western Virginia, paid us a brief visit during the beginning of the present week. Exhibition in Johnstown.

To the Editor of The Alleghanian: While in Johnstown last week, I had the leasure of attending an Exhibition given by the pupils of Mr. J. E. Giffen's Select Academy. It was a complete success, each and every one acquitting himself with credit .ome of the elder pupils exhibited a proficiency really astonishing. It were unjust to attempt enumerating the excellencies of any particular one, yet I could not help remarking the fluency with which some very difficult ubjects were handled.

The exercises were commenced with prayer the Rev. Mitchell. An oration on "The st and Present of America" was then delivered by W. M. Douglass. He did the subject full justice. Although not a pleasing speaker, he is an effective one. J. M. Cooper came next, with an original composition on "Vice and its Consequences." He pictured crime and its concomitants in glowing language, and with a power and depth of expression rarely equalled. A musical fautasia on the iano by Mrs. Luckhardt, assisted by a lady apil of the institution, was beautiful, as inced was the music throughout the entire evening. An essay, "Mind Your Own Business," read by D. A. Wilson, was well written. "Zephyr's Soliloguy," by a lady, elicited great applause. It possessed a refreshing originality that was really charming. "Maud Mason," by another young lady, was a very good composition, but read in such an indistinet tone as to preclude much judgment as to its merits. Several others, who could be heard but a short distance from the stage should try and improve the pitch of their voices. A debate, the question being "Should Congress Emancipate Slaves?" was rather deep a subject for the two young gentlemen who participated in it. They each-like too many of our Representatives in the halls of reetly opposite the Penna. Railroad pas-tenger depot. CAMP CAMPBELL, near Washington D. C. March 21, 1862.

To the Editor of The Alleghanian: Long have we looked and longed, and looked and longed in vain for a copy of "The Alleghanian." Not even a stray copy has reached us since we left Camp til the close of the session. The Apportion-Curtin. It used to be one of our most regular and welcome visitors. We have heretofore excused its remissness upon the grounds that the muddy roads to our camp prevented its coming, but this excuse will do no longer.

I would take great pleasure in furnishing you regularly with a camp effusion, had I anything to write about. The orworthy of the pen of a correspondent .-When we take up the line of march, I will then have an ample scope, and hope to improve the opportunity.

The camp fire at night presents the only feature of interest. Here the lover of fun can enjoy himself in listening to the yarns spun by the soldier on his fellow comrade. Among the most ludicrous I have heard is one told of a soldier, but not of the 54th, standing guard near a mud-hole of considerable depth, one dark night. Sometime during the night, the 'Officer of the Day' started on his tour of inspection. With his escort he approached the guard.

"Who comes there?" challenged the

Just at this moment the Sergeant of the guard missed his footing, and stepped into the mud-hole.

"Jesus Christ!" exclaimed the Sergeant. Taking this to be the name of the party approaching, the guard sang out: "Advance, Jesus Christ, and give the countersign!"

It is unnecessary for me to add that this is decidedly the best story of guard duty we have yet heard. But there are comes into one of the most eligible busi- hundreds of others told for truth by the

Except the regular service and drills one lazy and doless. Plenty to eat and wear, and but little hard labor, has a tendency, at any time, to enervate the man, but when you add to this the close confinement of the camp, you only tend to hasten the result. The march and battle alone call forth the energy of the soldier. What the result of the coming summer's campaign will have upon our boys, we can only conjecture. But we sincerely desire to be sent to Dixie ere old Sol travels too far Northward. Far more is to be dreaded, the army surgeons say, from sickness consequent upon an advance into a warm climate by Northern troops, than from the destructiveness of powder and lead. The destruction in time of COMMS. - A brace of interesting com- battle, the history of this war has shown, notwithstanding the number of troops engaged, and the improved weapons of offense and defence employed, is remarka- offers his professional services to the citizens

What a striking contrast the history of ancient battles presents to those of modern times. On the one hand we read: "And the Philistines fought, and Israel was smitten, and there fell one hundred and twenty and five thousand on that day." Whilst on the other we find :

Victory! Terrible Fighting. A Terrific Hand to Hand Struggle! Terrible Loss of Life on both Sides! Ten Rebels left Dead on the Field! Only Two of the Federals Killed!

And then the writer uses three columns of the Inquirer or Press to tell, in small type, what he has already blazoned to the world in capitals of enormous size. Now on Thursday, 3d of April next. To wit: we can't help but think that a sensible man would feel ashamed of such monstrous "tom-foolery" about the merest skirmish. There have been but few regular battles fought in this war, and in each of them the bill of tatality has been most remarkably and unaccountably small.

But we find we are wandering, and may throw ourselves open to the same measure of criticism we have just been bestowing upon the modern historian of the battle

No important change has been made in our Regiment since I last wrote you. And, excepting the fact, that ours was the honored regiment that furnished the funeral escort to the late gallant Col. Cameron, nothing has intervened to relieve the tedium of camp life. We have not yet been apprised of who is to be our Brigadier General, but are constantly expecting something definite upon that sub- for settlement. ject. This is a matter we are all anxious to know something about. When this becomes known to us, we may then be CMITH'S VEGETABLE COFFEE .able to say something concerning our future movements. Until then I hardly expect to know anything outside the lim-HORACE. principal stores in Ebensburg.

Letter from Harrisburg.

HARRISBURG, March 31, 1862. Correspondence of The Alleghanian.

Both Houses of the Legislature have agreed upon an adjournment sine die on the 11th day of April. All the most important measures have been left for final decision unment Bill has been amended in the Senate, and will be acted upon, during the week, in the House. The House Bill for re-imposing the tax upon tonnage, upon the Pennsylvania Railroad, has been reported in the Senate, but has not, as yet, been taken up in that body.

The following Joint Resolution will be adopted by the Senate, and is expressive of the views of a majority in reference to the Tonnage Tax question. This action I predicted in a former letter :-

"Resolved, &c., That our Senators in Congress be instructed, and our representatives requested, to favor a uniform tax upon tonnage as one of the provisions of the general

"Resolved, That if Congress shall fail to mpose a general tax upon tonnage, the commissioners to revise the tax law of the State be requested to consider the expediency of imposing a uniform tax upon the tonnage of the State, to be applied exclusively to the liquidation of any debt heretofore contracted. or hereafter to be contracted, for the defence of this State or the maintenance of the National Union. Such taxes to be imposed as to afford every just discrimination in favor of commissioners to report on the same to the | complete assortment of next Legislature by bill or otherwise.'

The Senate Joint Resolutions relative to abelishing slavery in the District of Columbia are in the House, having been reported ever before brought to this county, all o Senate Bill, apportioning the State into Con- the cheapest. gressional Districts, is also in the House, where it will probably undergo material amendment. Our District, composed of the counties of Cambria, Blair, Huntingdon and Mifflin, will remain as it now is. "There are many slips 'twixt the cup and the lip," is an old and true saying. Those interested in the adjudication and payment of Military claims have tested its truth, in the withdrawal of the Bill, which had passed both Houses, providing for them. After having fought it through, the friends of the Bill and those interested found that the Governor objected to many of its provisions, and that unless withdrawn, he would be obliged to veto it. It is understood that the Governor estimates the amount necessary to meet the claims under the Bill, at something like two millions of dollars. This sum would have to be provided for by a new loan, and, in the present state of the Treasury, the negotiation of further loans is inadvisable.
