

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

EBENSBURG AND CRESSON RAILROAD.—On and after Monday, May 5, 1862, trains on this road will run as follows:

LEAVE EBENSBURG.—At 5.30 A. M., connecting with Fast Mail East and Express West. At 6.25 P. M., connecting with Mail Train West and Express East.

From Our Volunteers.—CAMP NEAR PALMOUTH, Va., May 11, 1862.

The Cambria Guards En Route.—From Manassas Junction to Palmyra, Va.—Notings by the Way—Fredericksburg, etc., etc.

Our brigade marched from Manassas Junction on Friday morning, 18th ult. After proceeding a short distance, we struck the Orange and Alexandria Railroad, on which we marched until about one o'clock, P. M., when the order came to "halt!"

The most interesting occurrence that transpired while we remained at Catlett was the appearance in our midst of the genial countenance of Maj. Gideon Ball, our Paymaster. He paid off our regiment on Saturday, the day after our arrival.

We remained at this place ten days, leaving early on Monday morning, 28th ult. Co. A was detailed as rear-guard of the brigade. The duty of the rear-guard is to pick up all stragglers and bring them along. On several occasions during the day, we had the extreme pleasure of up-righting wagons, extricating the same from mud-holes, and pushing them up steep hills, and in one instance we were obliged to pull a wagon a considerable distance, the horses having emphatically refused to perform that duty!

Bright and early next morning, we were again ordered to fall in. The Eleventh, this time, had the honor of being right in front of the brigade. (The Eleventh, by the way, has gained the reputation of being the best training regiment in the division.) We halted at 10 A. M., to eat our dinner and rest for a short time. It is a highly picturesque sight to see a brigade, on the march, at the dinner hour. After the arms have been stacked and knapsacks thrown aside, in less than five minutes, as if by magic, a thousand or more little fires spring up, here, there, and everywhere, and fifteen minutes later, you every man with a cup of hot, smoking coffee to his lips.

After an hour's intermission, the line was again put in motion. We succeeded in reaching our destination—Palmyra—at 4 P. M., when the brigade marched through the town with colors flying and the bands playing. The "darkeys" appeared excessively pleased at our debut in their midst, and fabulous quantities of ivory were displayed from behind grinning, sooty faces, in approval of our entire proceedings.

Falmouth has, or had, a population of about one thousand inhabitants. There is a large cotton-mill here, at present in full tide of successful operation. Prior to the war, the town was a brisk enough one, and considerable business done, but it is now rather "under the cloud."

The city of Fredericksburg is on the opposite side of the river—the Rappahannock. Three bridges, one a railroad bridge, connected the two points, but were burned by the Rebels on their evacuation of the city. On the 2d inst., a bridge of canal-boats was improvised by our forces, and Gen. McDowell and staff crossed the river and took military possession of the city.

Fredericksburg is a most beautiful city, well laid out and clean, with a population of fifteen thousand. It at one time enjoyed a large shipping trade, and is at the head of tide-water. There is but one paper published here at present—a small Union sheet called The Christian Banner, edited by J. W. Huntcutt. It was suppressed by the Rebel authorities on the 9th May, 1861, and precisely one year to the day thereafter, it again made its appearance, the first number being issued on Friday last. It is strongly for the Union, and denounces Jeff Davis and his deluded followers in the most bitter terms. The male population of the place are generally for the Stars and Stripes, but some of the women are not quite so loyal in their sentiments. The poor white population are not half so intelligent as the same class in the North, and many of them do not even know the cause of the war now being waged between the two sections!

ABOUT CRESSON SPRINGS.—In the editorial chit-chat of that deservedly popular publication, Godey's Lady's Book, for June, we find the following complimentary mention of the celebrated summer resort, Cresson Springs, this county. It would appear that the writer had been enjoying the hospitality of that excellent institution, the Logan House, Altoona, for a season, subsequent to which he took occasion to pay his devoirs a little further up the Mountain. With this result:

"After having spent a week or more with our friends, the Millers, (at the Logan House,) jump into the cars in the morning and go over to Cresson, less than an hour's ride; away you go up the mountain at a speed equal to the level; and here you witness one of the most splendid specimens of engineering in the world—crossing a mountain in a railroad car, hitherto thought impossible until the Pennsylvania Rail Road Company, determined to conquer every obstacle, 'went and did it.' Arriving near the summit, you go through a tunnel, and then comes your descent on the other side. Cresson Springs is soon reached, and here you have Art and Nature combined—a splendid hotel seated in the midst of the woods, admirable springs, one of pure water surrounded by almost a field of rhododendrons, which when in bloom add peculiar beauty to the scene. At a short distance from the house, through a beautiful walk winding through the woods, is the mineral spring celebrated the country round. Mr. G. W. Mullin is the courteous proprietor of the hotel, and I those who have once paid him a visit need no other recommendation."

The Cresson is a large house, and is surrounded by cottages, for families who wish to live out of the bustle of the hotel. We have not forgotten our bread and butter days, and therefore think that when these articles are good, and Mr. Mullin has them in perfection, any one need not starve; but it is not only bread and butter that you get at the Cresson, for there is the mountain mutton, which this house is celebrated for; but why particularize? Everything that the Philadelphia market affords, and some things that it does not, are found here in perfection. The scenery surroundings are majestic and beautiful, and a sojourn at this mountain house in the summer months is something akin to an earthly paradise.

It is evident, from this, that Mr. Godey is a gentleman of taste and discernment, and well qualified to judge of the truly grand and beautiful in Art and Nature. He should visit Ebensburg the next time he comes up this way.

FIRE! FIRE!—On Sunday evening, a frame stable in the eastern portion of town, in the occupancy of Mr. Benjamin Williams, together with its contents, including a quantity of hay and a cow, was totally destroyed by fire. Owing to the extreme dryness of the atmosphere for several days previous, it was for a time feared that the adjacent buildings would become involved in the destruction, but this impression was happily dissipated by the herculean efforts of those present to stay the progress of the flames. The "Skwirt," as is usual in such cases, was on hand in an incredibly abbreviated space of time, and, after a lapse of divers minutes, during which hiatus she (a "Skwirt" is feminine—ain't it?) was revived by a severe application of lubricator and manual labor, succeeded in pouring an inch stream of water upon the charred embers and the bystanders—more especially upon the latter, however,—extinguishing both instantaneously. Since this brilliant performance, we expect and confidently hope to hear nothing more said as to the propriety of procuring a new engine for the use and behoof of this great and growing borough of ours. Where would be the use, you know!

A CAMBRIA COUNTY SOLDIER DEAD.—Mr. Griffith Evans, of Cambria township, this county, died at St. Joseph's Hospital, Philadelphia, last week, after a severe and protracted illness. The deceased enlisted in the "Cambria Guards" upon their departure hence almost a year ago, and during the intervening period, when not prostrated by illness, has served in the ranks of that company. He was an estimable young man, and highly spoken of by his companions in arms. His remains were brought home on Sunday, and on Monday interred in Lloyd Cemetery, whether they were followed by a large concourse of relatives and friends. The deceased was probably twenty-five years of age, and unmarried. Peace to his ashes!

The new Indiana paper, the Democrat, has made its appearance. It is edited with ability by Mr. J. B. Sansom, and presents a neat and tasteful external. Success to it!

Peterson's Magazine for June is on our table. It fully maintains the established reputation of the publication, and is, all in all, a superior number. Subscribe for it!

MARRIED.—On Thursday morning, 15th inst. at the residence of A. Bedilion, Esq., near Wheeling, Va., by the Rev. Mr. Clark, Mr. W. W. YOUNG, of Cresson, Penna., to Miss J. A. HOLMES, of Wheeling, Va.

The cry is—Still they go! We confess this announcement, upon being broke to us, took us a little by surprise, by reason that our friend, the bridegroom, happening in on us the other day, said never a word to the effect that he contemplated the committal of the rash act as above, neither did his actions or general appearance indicate anything in that direction. Yet so it is! The die is cast, the jig is up, and—another good fellow is pattered!

Well, under the circumstances, we know of no more appropriate mode of compromising the matter than by our tendering the happy couple a sincere orison for their success in the voyage matrimonial. May all sorts, shades and distinctions of felicity and prosperity be theirs, and they never rue the day—albeit their lives extend to three-score and a span—when they entered into this little arrangement of a "union of hearts and hands," etc.

All this, and much more. IN LUCK.—One day last week, we were made the recipients of a mysterious looking parcel, which, upon due examination, proved to be a cool hundred of fragrant Havana—a present from our friends, Wm. Davis & Sons. The gentlemanly Juniors have the thanks of the entire smoking corps of this establishment for their well-timed liberality, coupled with the hope that they may never stand in need of cigars or any other luxury in this world of "glorious uncertainties."

In this connection we may add, that the firm aforesaid have just opened out, at their store, in the East Ward, a really magnificent assortment of spring and summer goods, which the public in general is invited to call and examine. Those in quest of bargains should not fail to do as herein indicated. For further particulars see new advertisement elsewhere.

PROMOTIONS IN CO. A, ELEVENTH REGIMENT.—Second Lieut. James Burke has been promoted to be First Lieutenant, in stead of Lieut. R. A. Mc Coy, lately promoted to the Adjutantship of the regiment; Sergt. R. M. Jones promoted to be Second Lieutenant; and Second Sergeant Daniel J. Jones promoted to be Orderly Sergeant. These gentlemen are all from this place and vicinity, and were among the first to enrol their names in the muster roll of the company to which they belong. We wish them, individually and collectively, all manner of success in their advancement.

FOR THE SOLDIERS.—A box, containing a variety of articles of wear, as well as sundry little delicacies not usually down in a soldier's bill of fare, were shipped hence to Co. A, Eleventh regiment, (the Cambria Guards,) by the Ladies' Hose Association last week. The Ladies are doing nobly—all honor to them!
