Letter from a Southern Refugee---Dixie-dom in General and Richmond in Particular.

[The following interesting letter has been handed us by a friend for publication. The writer was formerly a resident of this county, but has lived in Virginia for a series of years past. He is well known in this section, and what he says may be relied on as being correct.]

CAMP MEADOW BLUFF, June 4, 1862.

* * * I have just made my escape from Rebeldom, and in so doing was so fortunate as to give the go-by to the rope intended for my neck. I left my home at night, and took to the mountains, accompanied by two Pennsylvanians—one a native of your county, James Kearns by name, residing in Johnstown. I was obliged, however, to leave my family behind, but hope the Federal army may soon reach their locality, that I may get them away.

I was in Richmond on the 24th of May last, and had a full opportunity of seeing and learning the number, position and condition of the Rebel army near that place under Joe Johnston. They number about seventy thousand effective troops, all of whom are in great straits for want of food and clothing, especially shoes.—Great numbers of deserters were leaving every day, and a guard of five hundred men were stationed in the city to pick up stragglers.

While I was there, one hundred and sixty bushels of corn were issued as rations to Longstreet's Brigade, to be parched. Bacon was selling at 30 cents per pound; brown sugar at 36 cents; salt at 50 dollars per sack! Gold commanded one hundred and thirty per cent. premium. Families were leaving the city daily, and more than one-half the entire population would hail the advent of the Federal forces as their sure deliverance from anarchy, despotism and starvation.

When Richmond falls, the stronghold of the Rebels is gone. All their armory and arsenal arrangements are there, with the exception of a small affair in North Carolina. Prior to my departure from the city, the State archives had been packed up and directed to Danville, Va. The Confederate would-be archives were also packed up and directed to Columbia, South Carolina, showing conclusively that Secesh expected Richmond to ultimately fall before M'Clellan and his brave army.

I took a sketch of the batteries, obstructions in the river, etc., for future reference.

Hoping that the armies of the Union may speedily crush out this accursed rebellion, conceived in sin, brought forth in iniquity, and fostered by the most corrupt and hellish means ever heard of since the celebrated rebellion in which the Devil played so conspicuous part, and that our glorious old Flag may long wave—a protection to American citizens whether at home or abroad—I remain

Yours, &c., MAC.

A BOUQUET.—We were made the fortunate recipient the other evening of a mammoth and magnificently arranged bouquet, composed of flowers

"——Of every kind and hue,
Fresh, and sweet, and heavy with dew"—

And fragrant as the zephyrs that are wafted o'er the Islands of the Blest. We pen this acknowledgement, we are sorry to say, under a slight disadvantage, inasmuch as the bouquet was presented incognito—that is to say, it was left at our door after nightfall, with a delicately pencilled card attached setting forth that the gift was intended for us, "With compliments of Miss ——,"—the name of the giver, the very point at which the quintessence of interest attached, being left in a most provoking state of darkness. The donor, however—and we know we can safely say fair donor—has our unqualified thanks for her kindness. May her existence always enjoy the coleur de rose, and—if she hasn't already done so, neither made the preliminary arrangements in that direction—she secure that acme of feminine ambition, a husband—

"May he be a noble."

Even so, saith ye recipient of this "First of the Season."

PISCATORIAL ITEM.—After due deliberation, on last Saturday we hung up our metaphorical "fiddle and bow" for the time being, and, in company with a friend, suffered ourself to indulge in the rare old luxury of a trout-fishing expedition. Although we do not profess to be par excellence "a" fisherman, nor, in fact, anything more than a mere novice in the line—or of the "line," if you please,—still the result of our blandishments on the finny tribe was altogether so gratifying that we herewith annex a summary of the spoils and things, for the especial edification of the world in general and piscators in partic. To wit:

Number of Trout caught,	120.
" " Duckings "	3.
" " Colds "	2.

The entire ten dozen trout were the simon-pure speckled mountain variety, varying from six to nine inches in length, and caught inside of four hours. The two first duckings arose from the circumstance of our exposure to a couple of eminently uncalled-for thunder storms, while the other was the result of an unfortunate head-over-heels plout into a very deep mill-dam—it I The colds are the never-failing accompaniment to "ye fisherman's luck"—first clause of the verse.

In short, and not to mince matters just at present, we flatter ourselves that, despite the adverse items of inexperience and thunder-storms, we did a prosperous day's work. And upon mature reflection, we think we are rather more qualified than otherwise to lay claim to the dignified appellation of "a" fisherman. So that henceforward, when ichthyology is the topic, consider us posted. We will not just here, however, challenge all Western Pennsylvania, including Lewistown and Blair county, to a trial of skill in the art, for the good and sufficient reason that we don't want to have the spots knocked off our exploit by papier mache anglers with their newspaporial stories of "scaly" feats of fabulous dimensions.

P. S.: Should any one, after the publication of this, put forth that he has caught more, bigger or better fish than were ours, his assertion will be indignantly repudiated, unless he establish its plausibility by sending to our office, on High street, a sample of the article in question.

VAN AMBURG & CO.'S MANAGERIE.—Our readers will please bear in mind that Van Amburg & Co.'s mammoth manageric of living wild animals will be exhibited in this place on next Monday, 23d inst. This is by long odds the best manageric now in the United States, and is an establishment of great magnitude, requiring one hundred and twenty horses to convey it from point to point. In New York and Philadelphia, where it attracted overwhelming audiences, the papers speak of it in terms of highest praise. No circus or other objectionable feature is connected with it.

"OUR OLD FLAG."—We have received several numbers of a neat little paper bearing the above title, printed at Franklin, Tennessee, by the 69th Ohio Volunteers. The names of Murrell, Faulkner and Evans appear as publishers. The latter gentleman we take to be none other than our old friend and printer, Mr. Benjamin D. Evans, formerly of this place. If this supposition is correct, here's till ye!

IRON CITY COLLEGE, PITTSBURG, PA.—This Institution enables young men at the least expense and shortest time to gain a solid business education for reliable accountants, in all classes of business. That its superior merits are appreciated by a discerning public, is shown by its being the largest and most popular Commercial School in the United States.

PETERSON.—Peterson's Magazine for July is received. As this number begins a new volume, now is the time to subscribe! Only two dollars per annum for the best, neatest and cheapest publication of its kind in the world. No lady should be without it. Address Charles J. Peterson, 306 Chestnut st., Phila.

BROWNLOW.—It is stated that the celebrated Parson Brownlow intends spending the heated term at Cresson Springs, this county. We are glad to hear this, and hope our invigorating mountain atmosphere may be the means of enabling him to recuperate his health sufficiently to fight Secession to the bitter end.

GODEY.—Godey's Lady's Book for July is on our table. With this number commences the thirty-third year of its publication—proof positive that the labors of the indefatigable Godey are duly appreciated by the class for whom he caters. One copy one year, $3. Address L. A. Godey, 323 Chestnut st., Phila.

DIED—At the residence of his mother, in this place, on Friday evening, 16th instant CHARLES D. MURRAY, Esq., editor of the Democrat & Sentinel, aged 30 years.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

The decease of Charles D. Murray Esq., having been announced, the members of the Ebensburg Bar met at the Court House, in said place, on Saturday the 14th day of June, 1862, at 10 o'clock A. M.

On motion of Wm. Kittell, Esq., Col Michael Dan Magehan was called to the chair; and on motion of John Fenlon Esq., P. S. Noon and A. C. Mullin were appointed Secretaries.

The chairman having stated the object of the meeting, and having passed a touching and eloquent eulogium upon the deceased,

R. L. Johnston, Esq., moved that a Committee of three be appointed to draft resolutions expressive of the sense of the meeting,

Which motion being carried, the President appointed R. L. Johnston, John S Rhey and Joseph M'Donald, Esquires said Committee, who after a brief absence, returned and reported the following Resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

An occasion of the most melancholy character summons the members of the Ebensburg Bar together this morning. One of our brothers,—who but a few days ago exulted in the most buoyant health,—has been, by a most heart-rending casualty, removed from our midst to that "bourne whence no traveller returns." Therefore, Be it

Resolved, That we deeply deplore the inscrutable dispensation of Divine Providence that has removed CHARLES D. MURRAY, Esq. from the scenes of his earthly labors.

Resolved, That in his demise and its surrounding circumstances we feel and deplore not only the loss of a professional brother but the additional grief of its being under the most painful and distressing circumstances.

Resolved, That in the deceased we recognized not only a gentleman of fine legal attainments, which, if fully developed, might have given him a most enviable position in his profession, but a man of the finest literary talent, a sound thinker, and a vigorous and nervous writer.

Resolved, That we hereby tender our sincerest sympathy to his pious and bereaved mother, for the loss of her highest earthly treasure, and can only refer her for support in this trying occasion to Him "That tempers the wind to the shorn lamb."

Resolved, That we shall wear the usual badge of mourning for the space of thirty days.

Resolved, That we shall attend the funeral in a body.

Resolved, That the officers of this meeting be a Committee to wait upon the mother of the deceased, with a copy of these resolutions.

Resolved, That the proceedings of this meeting be presented to the Court, at its next meeting, and that the Court be requested to spread the same upon the records.

And, on motion, Adjourned.

MICHAEL DAN MAGEHAN, Chairman.

[OBITUARY—COMMUNICATED.]

The late GORDON SINCLAIR was born in Scotland. In his youth he received that thorough education in the principles of sound morality and religion for which his native country is so celebrated, and the happy results of which were so conspicuous during his peaceful, honored, useful life in the land of his adoption. At about the age of maturity he immigrated to the United States, and made choice of Pennsylvania as the State in which he wished to secure a home. For many years he lived in Munster, Cambria county, and there enjoyed the respect, and friendship and good will of all who knew him. From that place he removed to the farm in Carroll Township on which he resided till the time of his decease, and sustained the character of an inoffensive, obliging and esteemed neighbor. His straightforward, truthful, honest manner of life carried him through the world so much to the satisfaction of all with whom he had business transactions that he never became entangled in the thick and dangerous intricacies of litigation. His honesty was proverbial—his friendship was sincere—his love was without dissimulation—and his religious character was ardent and irreproachable. He united with the Ebensburg Presbyterian Church at the date of its organization, in March, 1850, and soon after was elected to the office of Ruling Elder, the duties of which he filled with great acceptance.

His uniform piety and daily walk with God—his blameless life and good hope through grace—give the assurance that he was prepared to pass away from earth. His aged widow and bereaved children have a more precious legacy than the results of his unwearied industry and frugal habits in the hallowed remembrance of his consistent life, and upright example, and unsullied reputation, and in the sweet thought that the loved husband and father "died in the Lord," universally regretted by the Christian public, who unanimously bear cheerful testimony to the integrity of his character and the purity of his life.
