

ODDS & ENDS.

LINE OF BATTLE.—This expression often occurs in referring to the affairs of troops on the battle field, and it is doubtless the opinion of many that two armies stand in two lines; but it is not so. The army is divided into two divisions, and there are often great gaps between the divisions. They are posted in positions, or in commanding places—that is, on hills, or in woods, or on the banks of streams, in places where they will be best able to resist or attack the enemy. The divisions are usually so placed that they can support one another. You can understand a line of battle pretty well by imagining a regiment here on a hill, another down in the valley, a third in a piece of wood, with artillery and cavalry placed in the best positions. If you want to make it more real, when you are out in the fields or pastures, with the hills all around, just imagine that the enemy is over yonder hill, with ten thousand men and twenty pieces of artillery. You are a general and have an equal number. The enemy will come down that road, spread out into the field, or creep through the woods and attack you. You can't exactly tell how many men he will send on the right, or how many on the centre, or how many on the left; so you must arrange your forces to support each other. Then, to shift it, you are to attack him. You don't know how his troops are arranged, for he keeps them concealed as well as he can. You don't want many of your men killed, but do want to win a victory. Now there is a chance for you to try your skill in planning a battle. You must place your artillery in a position where it will do the most damage, and receive the least from the enemy. You must move your infantry so that they will not be cut off by the enemy before they get near enough to cut them up in return. You see that it is no small thing to be a general. These are great responsibilities.

ABOUT FRICTION MATCHES.—The value of the friction or lucifer match will never be realized by the coming generation, for they will know nothing of the difficulties of obtaining and preserving fire previous to their invention. So rapidly do we move on, that persons that remember the tinder-box are getting old. Then matches made by hand were valuable and carefully preserved; now they are as abundant as dew drops of an autumn morning and almost as cheap. An English writer says, that one firm, Messrs. Dixon, in London, constantly employ four hundred workmen in making twenty-two hundred million a year. The average consumption in England is two hundred and fifty millions a day or eight to each individual in the kingdom. It is as large or larger than the United States. There are two manufacturing in Austria and Bohemia that turn out forty-five thousand million a year. The friction match is therefore one of the institutions of modern times, and one that having once known and employed, we could no more do without and move on at the rapid rate we are doing than we could live without air or water.

How He got the Countersign.—One night after the countersign was on, the quartermaster of one of the Pennsylvania regiments, endeavoring to enter the lines, was challenged by an Irish sentinel. "Halt! Who goes there?" "A friend, without the countersign." "Well, what d'ye want?" "I am the quartermaster, and want to get into my regiment, and not knowing the countersign, I suppose I shall have to go back and get it." "Is that all? An' ye japers, what's to prevent me givin' ye the countersign?" "Nothing, I suppose." The sentinel gave him the countersign, and the quartermaster entered the lines with a beaming face, to tell his story to a circle of laughing comrades.

A CARD.—WITMER'S BRIDGE, Lancaster Tp. July 30, 1860. MESSRS. EVANS AND WATSON: GENTLEMEN.—The small size No. 1 Salamander safe which I purchased from your agency, Mr. Adam R. Barr, in Lancaster City, on July 20th, 1858, has been subjected to a very severe test, which it withstood in a most satisfactory manner. This safe, containing all my books together with valuable papers belonging to myself and some to my neighbors and friends, and representing a value of over Twenty Thousand Dollars, ($20,000) was in my Mill which was destroyed on the night of the 27th of June, 1860, and passed through the fiery ordeal unscathed. The safe was on the second floor and fell to the basement of the Mill, and was subjected for six hours to an intense heat among the ruins, which was greatly increased by the combustion of a large quantity of grain confined within the brick walls. After the fire the safe was opened and the books and papers taken out in a state of perfect preservation, the paper not even being discolored. This fact was, however, to many bystanders a better recommendation of your Safes than could be expressed in any other words from me. Yours Respectfully, SAMUEL RANCK. A large assortment of the above quality of Fire and Thief Proof Safes always on hand and for sale at as low rates as any other firm. EVANS & WATSON'S, No. 16 South Fourth st., Philadelphia.

THE WEEKLY PRESS. THE WEEKLY PRESS has been established on a secure and permanent foundation; but it is, in reality, a marvelous example of the degree of favor which a rightly-conducted LITERARY, POLITICAL AND NEWS JOURNAL can receive at the hands of a liberal and enlightened Public.

The general features of the Paper, in addition to its POLITICAL AND NEWS DEPARTMENTS, will be POETRY, SKETCHES, BIOGRAPHY and Original and Selected TALES, chosen for their lessons of Life, illustrations of History, depicture of Manners, and general merit, and adapted, in their variety, to the tastes of both sexes and all ages.
