A countryman came into a store in Philadelphia the other day, and told the store keeper that a neighbor of his had entrusted him with some money to be spent to the best advantage, and he meant to do it where he would be treated the best. He had been very well treated by the traders, and would not part with his neighbor's money until he had found a man who would treat him about right .-With the utmost suavity the trader Bays : Sempore of adjoin

"I think I can treat you to your liking, how do you want to be treated?" "Well," says the farmer, with a leer in his eye, tin the first place I want a glass of today;" which was fortheoming. "Now I will have a nice cigar," says the countryman. It was promptly handed him, leasurely lighted, and throwing himself back with his feet as high as his head, he commenced pulling away like a Dutch-

"Now what do you want to purchase ?" suys the storekeeper.

"My neighbor handed me two cents when I left home to buy a plug of tobacco,' answered the farmer, "have you got the article?"

The storekeeper stopped instanter, and the pext thing that was heard from him was that his sides were shaking, and his face on fire, as he was relating the sell to his friends.

One of our exchanges gives the following simple plan for getting rid of rats:

"Take a mackerel barrel, for instance, and fill it about one third its height with water. Then place a log endwise in the water, so that one end will just remain over the surface. Make the head of the barrel a little too small to fit it, and suspend it by two pins to the inside of the top of the barrel, so that it will hang as if on a pivot and easily tip by touching either side. On this head thus suspended secure a piece of savory meat. The first rat that scents it will, to get the meat, leap on the barrel head. The head will trip, or tilt, precipitate him into the water, and resume its position. The rat in the water will swim to the log, get on the end of it, and squeal vociferously. His cries TOASTING FORKS, OYSTER BROILERS, will bring other rats, all of whom will Jelly Cake Moulds, Table and Tea Spoons, be tilted into the water, and all of whom will fight for the only dry spot in it, viz: the end of the log. As only one rat can hold it, the victor will drown all the rest, and can, in the morning, be drowned himself. We have seen twenty caught in one night by such a trick."

Our friend Jones has been doing homage to a pair of bright eyes, and talking tender things by moonlight. A few evenings since, Jones resolved to "make his destiny secure." Accordingly, he fell on his knees before the fair Dulcinea, and made his passion known. She refused him flat. Jumping to his feet, he informed her in choice terms that there were as good fish in the sea as ever were caught. Judge the exasperation of our worthy swain when she coolly replied: "Yes, but they don't bite at toads!"-Jones has learned a lesson.

One day while Carl Schurz was awfully boring Old Abe for a foreign embassy, he asked him where he was originally from. "I am an Amsterdam Dutchman," said

"Well," said Old Abe with one of his usual sallies, "Mr. Schurz, what is the difference between an Amsterdam Dutchman and any other dam Dutchman !"

An apothecary's boy was lately sent to leave at one house a box of pills, and at another six live fowls. Confused on the way, he left the pills where the fowls should have gone, and the fowls at the pill place. The folks who received the fowls were astonished at reading the accompanying direction: "Swallow one every two hours."

The following is a postscript to an Irish letter: Dear Mike-If you don't get this letter at all, write and let us know it, and I will raise the devil with the postmaster.

CARD.-· WITMER'S BRIDGE,

Lancaster Tp. July 30, 1860. Messes. Evans and Watson: Gentlemen-The small size No. 1 Salamander safe which I purchased from your agent, Mr. Adam R Barr, in Lancaster City, on July 20th, 1858, has been subjected to a very severe test, which it withstood in a most satisfactory manner. This Safe, containing all my books together with valuable papers belonging to myself and some to my neighbors and friends, and represeting a value of over Twenty Thousand Dollars, ($20,000) was in my Mill which was destroyed on the night of the 27th of July, 1860, and passed through the fiery ordeal unseathed. The Safe was on the second floor and fell to the basement of the Mill, and was subjected for six hours to an intense heat among the raids, which was greatly increased by the combustion of a large quantity of grain confined within the brick walls. After the fire the safe was opened and the books and papers taken out in a state of perfect preservation, the paper not even being discolored. This fact was, however, to many bystanders a better recommendation of your Safes than could be expressed in any other words from
