

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

THE DRAFTED MILITIA.—The much-talked-of, reasonably dreaded Draft of Militia was made throughout the State on Thursday, some two hundred being drawn in this county alone. No undue excitement was manifested, but, on the contrary, everything was conducted with dignity and decorum. Commissioner Harr was present, and superintending the delicate operation. Constable O'Neill acted as assistant, and, blindfolded, drew the required number of names from the wheel. They are as follows:

- Allegany Tp. Daniel Conaway, Joseph Eckenrode, Joseph Doolson, Aloysius Sankner, Samuel Stoy, Jacob Mause, ...

MILITARY.—A considerable force of infantry and cavalry, under Gen. Humphrey, made a successful reconnaissance from Shephardstown on Thursday of last week. Four miles from the river they encountered a detachment of the enemy, and a skirmish ensued, resulting in the loss of one killed and two wounded on the side of the Union forces. They advanced as far as Leestown, fully accomplishing the object of the expedition, returning to camp Friday night. The 133d Pa. Vols. belong to Gen. Humphrey's division, but were not engaged in the reconnaissance.—Corp. James A. Kittell, of this place, who has been out with the 133d regiment for the past two months, returned home last week, he having been discharged from the service on account of physical disability.—Lt. Col. Kopelin, of the 133d, having tendered his resignation of the position he held in the army, has been relieved from duty. His successor, we believe, has not yet been elected.—Rev. A. J. Hartsock, of the United Brethren Congregation, Johnstown, has been appointed Chaplain of the 133d.—The 54th regiment, what is left of it, is still stationed along the Balt. & Ohio Railroad.—Mr. John Roberts, of Co. A, 11th Penna. Reserves, on recruiting service in this place for several weeks past, returned to his regiment on Friday.

SOLDIER DEAD.—Another of our brave heroes has fallen! Corporal Evan D. James, of Co. A, 11th Penna. Reserves, whose parents reside in Cambria township, died in hospital at Philadelphia on Thursday last, of typhoid fever. His remains were brought here on Saturday, and on Sunday committed to their last resting-place. At his death, the deceased was in full bloom of vigorous youth, some 23 years old we should think, and much beloved by his many friends and acquaintances. The illness resulting in his death was a long and painful one, extending over a period of three months. He, in common with the regiment to which he belonged, was captured by the Rebels at the bloody battle of Gaines' Hill, before Richmond, the long and tedious confinement ensuing engendering the seeds of disease in his frame. Thus is the responsibility resting upon the leaders of the Slaveholders' Rebellion—cause of untold misery, sorrow and death—day by day enhanced. "Vengeance is mine, saith the Lord—I will repay."

UNEXPECTED DEATH.—We are sorry to chronicle the demise, in hospital near Maryland Heights, a week or so ago, of Alexis Boardman, a member of Co. K, 125th Penna. Vols. The deceased lived in Ebensburg at the date of his enlistment, his parents residing in Carroll Tp. He was wounded in the foot at the battle of Antietam, it being thought his injury was but slight, and the announcement of his death will doubtless surprise many of our readers. A moral, steady young man, he was beloved by all who knew him, and universally respected. The letter from the 125th Vols., detailing the part sustained by that regiment in the battle of Antietam, and printed in these columns two weeks since, was written by him. Then he was full of life and hope, and anxiously looking forward to the moment when he would be enabled to rejoin his companions in arms; now he fills a patriot's grave. Green be his memory!

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.—Pursuant to a call published last week, the Teachers' Institute met in Johnstown, on Wednesday, 15th inst., and continued in session three days. About forty members were in attendance—a very perceptible diminution of the number present during the meeting last April. Prof. Bates, Deputy State Superintendent, who was present, delivered several highly instructive and interesting lectures upon matters pertaining to a Common School Education. The subject of Physical Education, which has hitherto been sadly neglected, was dwelt upon at length by him, and the necessity of some exercises tending to develop the muscles of the human frame being introduced into our schools, was fully impressed upon the minds of those present. In short, the Institute passed off very creditably, those present showing the greatest willingness "to be learnt," while a correspondingly obliging disposition was shown by several of the more experienced teachers in demonstrating their different modes of "teaching the young 'idea' to shoot."
