ODDS & ENDS.

☞ A correspondent of the Boston Transcript writes:—"I heard a very characteristic anecdote of the late Commodore Perceval from one of his officers, the other day. While he was in the Cyane, in one of the Mediterranean ports, he happened to go into a hotel where were congregated several English officers of the navy, and in the course of conversation the Commodore said something obnoxious to the dignity or nationality of one of the number, on which he told him he should give him 'satisfaction' for it.—He accordingly stepped out, and returned with two loaded pistols, and gave one to Commodore Jack. Eyeing the weapon for a moment, he asked the Englishman what he wanted him to do with that?—"Give me satisfaction for what you have just said." Whereupon Mad Jack took his chapeau from his head, and, tossing it in the air, fired a shot through it as it went up, saying to the Englishman, "I can give you such satisfaction as that" The blustering officer was satisfied merely by witnessing the shot."

☞ An Illinois soldier deserted from his regiment in Kentucky, and forging a pass succeeded in passing the guards at Louisville and arrived at New Albany on Wednesday, as a paroled prisoner. There, however, as we learn from the Ledger, he was overhauled by the provost guard and asked for his pass. "I've got a parole, sir," he replied; "here it is." showing them the forged document, which was signed "Curby Smith." The guard carefully examined it and then, turning upon the Sucker, said: "No you don't, old fellow; that parole is a humbug. Kirby Smith has pretty much quit spelling his name Curby." Illinois acknowledged the corn, and said he had paid ten dollars for the parole, but thought the man that wrote it knew how to spell Kirby Smith's name. He was sent to the barracks in Louisville.

☞ Several years ago, and soon after the "anti-license law" went into force in the Green Mountain State, a traveller stopped at a hotel and called for a glass of brandy.

"Don't keep it, said the landlord, "forbidden by the law to keep liquor of any kind."

"The deuce you are," said the stranger, incredulously.

"Such is the fact," said the host, "the house don't keep it."

"Then bring your own bottle," said the traveller, with decision; "you need not pretend to me that you keep that face in repair on water."

The landlord laughed heartily and brought his private bottle.

☞ An ingenious mechanic of Hanover has invented and has on exhibition at the World's Fair at London, an ingenious bed-stead, which will call a man in the first place by means of an ordinary alarm; if this fail, by a tremendous uproar; and finally, as the last resource, the sleeper is turned out and set on his feet. Nor is this all. The machine lights a lamp, makes a cup of coffee, which is sure to be ready by the time the awakened sleeper has rubbed his eyes and established his equilibrium.

This is very fine, to be sure, but wouldn't it be better to have a nice woman to attend to these things?

☞ A Lexington, Ky., correspondent tells the following anecdote respecting Confederate money:

"Dey had a gay time here a little while back, massa," remarked a sable waiter to the "Phœnix" last evening. "Ebry one of dem Rebels made his own money, and dey was berry free wid it, coz dey know'd it didn't cost nuffin. One gentleman gib me five dollars for brackin' his boots, and I tole him he was very kine; but it it was all de same to him I'd rudder hab a d me. He told me den I was a d——d Yankee niggar, and didn't gib me nuffin."

☞ "Mr. So and so, I understand you said I sold you a barrel of hard cider with water in it?"

Oh, no, not at all," was the reply. "I only said you sold me a barrel of hard water with cider in it!"

☞ A Germantown storekeeper having once sunk his shop floor a few feet, announces that, "in consequence of recent improvements, goods will be sold much lower than formerly."

☞ One of twin brothers died. A fellow meeting the survivor, asked—"Which is it that's dead—you or your brother?"

☞ A man who had to cross a river entered a boat on horseback. Being asked why, he replied, "I must ride; I am in a hurry."

A CARD.—

WITMER'S BRIDGE,
Lancaster Tp. July 30, 1860.

MESSRS. EVANS AND WATSON: GENTLEMEN—The small size No. 1 Salamander safe which I purchased from your agent, Mr. Adam R Barr, in Lancaster City, on July 20th, 1858, has been subjected to a very severe test, which it withstood in a most satisfactory manner. This Safe, containing all my books together with valuable papers belonging to myself and some to my neighbors and friends, and representing a value of over Twenty Thousand Dollars, ($20,000) was in my Mill which was destroyed on the night of the 27th of July, 1860, and passed through the fiery ordeal unscathed. The Safe was on the second floor and fell to the basement of the Mill, and was subjected for six hours to an intense heat among the ruins, which was greatly increased by the combustion of a large quantity of grain confined within the brick walls After the fire the safe was opened and the books and papers taken out in a state of perfect preservation, the paper not even being discolored. This fact was, however, to many bystanders a better recommendation of your Safes than could be expressed in any other words from me. Yours Respectfully, [se13 SAMUEL RANCK.

THE WEEKLY PRESS.

THE WEEKLY PRESS has been established on a secure and permanent foundation; but it is, in reality, an excellent example of the degree of favor which a rightly-conducted LITERARY, POLITICAL AND NEWS JOURNAL can receive at the hands of a liberal and enlightened Public.

The general features of the Paper, in addition to its POLITICAL AND NEWS DEPARTMENTS, will be POETRY, SKETCHES, BIOGRAPHY and Original and Selected TALES, chosen for their lessons of Life, Illustrations of History, depicture of Manners, and general merit, and adapted, in their variety, to the tastes of both sexes and all ages.

THE LITERARY CHARACTER OF THE WEEKLY PRESS, now universally acknowledged to be of an elevated stamp, shall not only maintain its present high standing, but shall be enhanced by important and valuable contributions from able Writers.

THE POLITICAL COURSE OF THE WEEKLY PRESS need not be enlarged upon here. Independent, steady and fearless, it has battled unwaveringly and zealously in defence of THE RIGHTS OF THE PEOPLE against Executive Usurpation and Unfair and Tyrannical Legislation; ever declaring and adhering to the doctrine that POPULAR SOVEREIGNTY constitutes the fundamental basis of our free institutions, and that the intelligence and patriotism of our Citizens will always be preservative of a just, wise and salutary Government. These are the principles to which THE WEEKLY PRESS has been committed, and to these it will adhere.
