EBENSBURG AND CRESSON RAILROAD. On and after Monday, December 22, 1862, trains on this road will run as follows:

From Our Volunteers. CAMP NEAR FALMOUTH, VA., Jan. 19, 1863.

CO. F, 133D PENNA. VOLS.—FACTS CONCERNING THEIR PARTICIPATION IN THE GREAT BATTLE OF FREDERICKSBURG.—SUNDRIES.

Seeing that two of your correspondents with this company—"O. K." and "Wal- tham"—are lying cold in the embrace of death, within the limits of the late scene of strife and carnage at Fredericksburg, I think it behooves me to write you a few lines, in order to keep the friends at home posted as to our doings in the field.

Too much praise cannot be given the 133d for their gallantry in the late fight. Co. F, especially, suffered severely in the struggle. In the deaths of Capt. John M. Jones and Lieut. William A. Scott, we have lost two brave officers and excel- lent commanders. It was simply impos- sible for me to afford you an idea of the depth of sorrow that lingers in our bosoms since their untimely death.

On the morning of the 11th December, when our regiment broke up camp prepara- tory to moving into Fredericksburg, every man was in line, ready to do any duty asked of them. While thus stand- ing, Capt. Jones returned to the head of the company, he having been absent for several days previous by reason of an at- tack of typhoid fever. Three cheers were given him for his prompt return to duty—and given with a will!

We crossed the Rappahannock on Sat- urday afternoon, 13th ult., under a severe shower of shot and shell, and, after hav- ing traversed the principal streets of the city, my whole division (Humphrey's) landed in line of battle behind the crest of a small hill a short distance out, un- der knapsacks, fixed bayonets, and awaited the order to move. In the mean- time, a perfect storm of balls was passing overhead. After the lapse of a few min- utes, the order came to move forward at a double-quick. No sooner was the com- mand given than the whole line rushed against the Rebel position, the men yell- ing like tigers. In that terrible charge, not a man flinched, but all bore them- selves as heroes. The first in our company to fall was John F. Wiggins, shot through the abdomen, and since dead.

While the men remained in action, two long hours, they fought like veterans.— There was no straggling there—no shrink- ing of duty,—but each man stood up to the work nobly, loading and firing as rapidly as circumstances would admit.

The fight being over, of course we were all anxious to know the fate of our com- rades. Those who were wounded had been taken from the field during the ac- tion; nothing remained, therefore, but to examine the faces of the dead and see whether we could identify any of our number among them. In this sad scruti- ny we were but too successful. Here lay the body of David Morgan; there, John Fox, with his feet resting on Daniel Kal- lance, both sleeping quietly in death; close by was the body of Levi Moore; a few yards further off, an officer could be seen lying with his face downward—Lieut. Scott, shot through the head and heart and instantly killed; yonder reclined Capt. Jones, mortally wounded—subse- quently removed to our division hospital, where he expired at midnight. John M. Jones was instantly killed while coming off the field with Corp. James M. Thomp- son.

It was an utter impossibility to inter the bodies at that time. The night was dark and gloomy, and a shell from the enemy's works would occasionally explode over our heads, while the fact of our pos- sessing neither pick nor shovel was of itself an obstacle that could not be over- come. Much against our will, we were compelled to leave the bodies to the ten- der mercies of the enemy. The remains of Capt. Jones and Lieut. Scott, however, were buried by the company, and their graves marked that they may be easily identified hereafter.

Among those who were severely wound- ed, I may mention Corp. Hugh J. Hum- phrey, who died on Sunday following.

When on his way to the hospital, he was met by Corp. Samuel W. Davis, who kindly tendered his assistance toward helping him thither. The offer was mod- estly declined in the following noble, patriotic words: "Sam, I'll get along the best way I can; you go and do your duty in the field." Wounded, and scarcely able to walk, yet, like a true soldier that he was, he preferred to suffer death even than to allow our cause sustain a defeat.

Joseph Miller, shot in the breast, will not live many days. George W. Berkey, shot through right shoulder blade, will prob- ably recover. William M. Evans had his left eye shot out; what has become of him is not known. Robert Deveraux, shot in the head and shoulders, is doing well; his wound was dressed by Capt. Jones during the action—a convincing proof of our commander's bravery and coolness. The balance of the wounded are not seriously hurt.

We went into the fight with fifty-four men, rank and file, of whom eight were killed, seventeen wounded, and three missing. The missing are, Richard M. Jones, Sergt. Nathan Bracken and Eldridge G. Evans. The latter, however, has been heard from; he was taken prisoner and paroled, and is now in camp near Alex- andria. Nothing whatever has been seen or heard of the other two, and we are almost satisfied that we shall never be- hold them more on earth.

Thus you see, dear reader, that Co. F has indeed been called upon to offer up a precious sacrifice in behalf of the country. May God grant that it may not have been in vain.

What is left of the company now occupy the quarters which we had built prior to the fight. They are comfortably situ- ated.

Lieut. F. M. Flanagan, who now com- mands the company, bore himself with unexampled bravery throughout the ac- tion. The men fairly adore him, and entertain high hopes that he may be promoted to be our Captain.

Last week, Philip S. Noon, Esq., Edw. Thomas, and Joe and Ben Thompson paid us a short visit. The former came in quest of the remains of his brother, Adjt. James C. Noon, of our regiment, who was killed in the battle of Fredericksburg, and lies buried inside the enemy's lines. To our great sorrow, he failed in obtain- ing a flag of truce to cross the river, and was obliged to return home without ac- complishing the object of his mission.

Edwin B. Roberts of our company, is now seriously ill in the regimental hospi- tal. His complaints are inflammation of the lungs and typhoid fever, and but faint hopes are at present entertained of his recovery. E. R. W.

EBENSBURG LYCEUM.—After a lapse of some four or five months, during which interval it had lain entirely dormant, the "Ebensburg Literary Association" has been revived and re-established.

The first meeting under the new auspices was held in Temperance Hall on last Friday eve, with a fair attendance. The exer- cises, consisting in part of debates, original and select orations, and essays, are con- ducted with much spirit, and generally prove highly interesting. The Associa- tion is in possession of an excellent library, open to all members. In short, the several departments pertaining to the so- ciety are of a superior order, and well calculated to meet the wants of a literary community. We know of no place where our citizens could pass a pleasanter even- ing, or a more profitable one, than here. And as the price of admission to mem- bership is merely nominal, we anticipate and confidently hope that many may take advantage of the opportunity and enter their names on the books of the Associa- tion during the winter.

The question for discussion next Friday evening is as follows: Resolved, That England and France would be justifiable in acknowledging the indepen- dence of the Southern Confederacy.

—Lieut. Col. Charles Albright, of the 132d Penna. Volunteers, (and formerly a resident of this place,) is highly commen- ded by Brigadier General Marshall in his report of the battle of Fredericksburg. He says "no braver, more intelligent and gallant officer ever drew a sword in de- fence of the Union" than Col. A. After the color-bearer of the regiment had been wounded, Col. Albright gallantly rode to the front of the line, through a perfect storm of canister, shell and musketry, and waving his sword, told his men to consider that the colors during the rest of the fight! He escaped unhurt.

—We return our thanks to Hon. C. L. Pershing for sundry valuable public doc- uments We hope he will keep on send- ing them!

OBITUARY.—Of the many excellent young men of this vicinity who testified their devotion to their country by pour- ing forth their life-blood on the plains of Fredericksburg, none died more univer- sally regretted than Corp. Hugh J. HUM- PHREY, of Co. F, 133d Penna. Vols. The following letter conveys the sad announce- ment of his demise, and pays a touching tribute to his worth and high moral char- acter:

NEAR FALMOUTH, VA., Dec. 19, 1862. Mr. JOHN HUMPHREY—Dear Sir: It be- comes my painful duty to inform you of the death of your beloved son, Hugh J. Hum- phrey. He died on Sunday afternoon, in the hospital at Fredericksburg, Va. He had been wounded in the bowels the Saturday previous. I found him in a church, and had him conveyed to our hospital, and got a bed for him, and made him as comfortable as possible. Corporal Stearns was with him dur- ing his last moments.

He was fully conscious of death approach- ing, and was perfectly resigned to his fate. He did not suffer much until a few hours of his death. He died as a Christian and a brave soldier, and with the full assurance that he had done his duty by his God and his country. He was universally loved and esteemed by all who knew him.

We all sincerely sympathize with you in the loss of your dear son. Yours, very truly, T. L. HEYER.

The Chaplain of the regiment, Rev. A. J. Hartsock, also bears testimony to the uniform uprightness of conduct of the deceased. In a letter to the father, the reverend gentleman says:

Dear Friend: I truly sympathize with you in your bereavement. I can cheerfully testi- fy to the upright conduct of your son. When I found him, after the battle of Saturday, he was praying, and as fully resigned as any man ever was when about to retire to rest for the night. There were no signs of fear, but he was perfectly calm. He lived until Sabbath about midnight, and during that time was perfectly resigned, and gave every evidence of a preparation for death. You may rest assured that his soul now rests with God.

Shortly before his death, among other messages home, the deceased gave utter- ance to the following beautiful sentiment: "Tell my father I die for my country; my trust is in God, my hope in Jesus Christ, and all is well with me."

Corporal Humphrey was born in Cambria township, this county, where his pa- rents still reside, and was about 29 years of age when he fell. A few years ago he removed to Harrisburg, where he became engaged in the service of the Adams' Ex- press Company. Subsequently he was appointed an Express messenger on the Pennsylvania Railroad, running through from Philadelphia to Pittsburg, in which capacity he continued to serve until last summer. At home on a visit, in August, when Capt. Jones' company was being recruited, he enlisted, and offered his services and his life in behalf of his country.

He has gone!—and his fall will bring sorrow to many loving hearts. But his memory will be enshrined among the most sacred reminiscences of patriot souls for- ever. Honest and true, kind and gener- ous, gifted and manly and brave, he has passed away with the chivalrous spirit of a hero and the hopeful bearing of a Christian. Green be the turf above him!

SOLDIER DEAD.—By a letter from Sergt. Wm. W. Evans, written in Libby Prison, Richmond, to his friends here, we learn that William W. Davis, a member of Co. A, 11th Penna. Reserves, who has been missing from his company since the battle of Fredericksburg, died in the Rebel Bastion on the 24th December. He had been wounded in the leg so severely as to necessitate amputation, from the effects of which operation he failed to recover. The deceased resided in Cambria township, and was an estimable young man. He was aged about 22 years.

"BE FIRM AS STEEL, BOYS!"—On to day's outside we print a poetic tribute to the memory of the lamented Capt. John M. Jones, based upon that gallant officer's last words of counsel and encour- agement to his men—the chaste and elegant offering of a lady residing in the State of New York, who has a son in the 133d Penna. Vols. It originally appear- ed in the Johnstown Tribune.

—That "excellent sleighing" we spoke about last week is at present pretty much "played out," the warm rays of the sun and a couple of showers of rain within the past few days having done the work for it. We are sorry. We live in hopes, however—hopes of more snow.

—The board of Poor House Directors of this county have appointed George C. K. Zahn to be Treasurer of the Poor funds, James Kaylor, Steward of the Poor House, and Dr. William Lemen, Surgeon—all re-appointments.

THE NEW-YORK TRIBUNE.

The New York Tribune first issued in 1841, now in its twenty-second year, has obtained both a larger and a more widely diffused circulation than any other newspaper ever pub- lished in America. Though it has suffered, in common with other journals, from the volunteering and departure of tens of thou- sands of its patrons to serve in the War for the Union, its circulation on this 6th day of December, 1862, is as follows:

Pre-eminently a journal of News and of Liter- ature, The Tribune has political convictions which are well characterized by the single word REPUBLICAN. It is Republican in its hearty adhesion to the great truth that "God has made of one blood all nations of men"—Republican in its assertion of the equal and inalienable rights of all men to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.—Republican in its steadfast, earnest, defiant hostility to every scheme and effort of the Slave Power, from the Annexation of Texas to the great Rebellion, to grasp the empire of the New World and wield the resources of our country for its own aggrandizement.—Republican in its antagonism to the aristocrats and despots of the Old World, who fondly hail in the per- is and calamities suddenly thrust upon by their American counterpart the overthrow and ruin of the Model Republic—Republican in its hope and trust, its faith and effort, that this atrocious Rebellion must result in the signal overthrow of its plotters, and the firm establishment of equal rights and equal laws throughout the whole extent of our country, wherein Liberty and Union shall indeed be "one and inseparable" henceforth and forever.

The Tribune devotes attention in calmer times, and to some extent in these, to Educa- tion, Temperance, Agriculture, Invention, and whatever else may minister to the spiritual and material progress and well-being of man- kind; but for its main present its energies and its labors are mainly devoted to the investigation and success of the War for the Union. Its special correspondents accompany every considerable army and report every important incident of that great struggle which we trust is soon to result in the signal and conclusive triumph of the National arms and in the restoration of Peace and Unity to our distracted, bleeding country. We believe that no other- wise can a fuller or more accurate view of the progress and character of this momentous contest be obtained than through the regular perusal of our columns. And we earnestly solicit the co-operation of all friends of the National cause, which we regard and uphold as that of Universal Humanity, to aid us in extending its circulation.

TERMS.—The enormous increase in the price of printing paper and other materials used in printing newspapers, compels us to increase the price of The Tribune. Our new terms are:

Table with columns: Single Copy, Mail Subscribers, SEMI-WEEKLY TRIBUNE, WEEKLY TRIBUNE.

Any larger number, addressed to names of subscribers, $1.50 each. An extra copy will be sent to every club of ten.

Twenty copies, to one address, one year, $5.00, and any larger number at other materials. An extra copy will be sent to clubs of twenty. To clubs of thirty, THE SEMI-WEEKLY TRIBUNE will be sent. To clubs of fifty, THE DAILY TRIBUNE will be sent gratis. Address: THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Buildings, New York.

When drafts can be procured, it is much safer than to remit Bank Bills. The name of the Post Office and State should in all cases be plainly written.

Subscribers who send money by Express must prepay the Express charges, else it will be deducted from the remittance.
