ODDS & ENDS.

☞ How to Tell a Tory.—He curses the Abolitionists, damns the black Republicans, and is dreadfully savage on the "free niggers." He is terribly distressed about the suspension of the habeas corpus, and rages about Fort Lafayette and "the Bastile." He is very, very much afraid there will be an insurrection of the slaves, but is perfectly easy about the insurrection of the masters. He villifies the President, and wishes he had sunk to the bottom of the ocean. He is wonderfully exercised on the subject of political preaching, but believes in Vandyke and the divinity of slavery. He talks a great deal about the enormous war debt, and is alarmed at the "bankrupting flood" of green-backs. He calls the Southerners gentlemen and the New Englanders penurious and fanatical. He thinks the soldiers haven't any right to vote. He doubts whether Rosecrans was victorious at Murfreesboro, and don't care whether he was or not. You can tell him at a glance in a crowd around the bulletin board, for the flash of patriotic joy is absent from his eye, as the news of a brilliant victory is heralded from the Army of the Republic, while the intelligence of a defeat draws from him the exclamation you can never subjugate the South.

☞ In his new lecture, Artemas Ward makes some fun of Dr. Winship, the New England "strong man," who advertises that he will lift twelve able-bodied men, at one time, at the close of his lecture.—Artemas travesties the muscular New Englander by facetiously inviting twelve agreeable young ladies on the platform, stating that he will lift them, one at a time, or "perish in the attempt." This is very good; but out in Indiana, at a town rejoicing in the name of Nolan, the girls rather more than got even with him, for when he extended the aforesaid invitation, twelve fair damsels arose and solemnly advanced to the platform and demurely arranged themselves to be "lifted." The audience gave a regular Hoosier scream, but the Showman failed to see anything particularly funny about it. He didn't lift 'em!

☞ A gentleman of nervous temperament once called on Dr. Dwight, President of Yale College. One of the doctor's boys was rather boisterous and pestered the nervous gentleman somewhat—whereupon he said to him, "My boy, if you will keep still while I am talking to your father, I will give you a dollar." Instantly the boy hushed down, gently as a sleeping lamb. At the close of the gentleman's remarks, he attempted to leave without giving the boy the dollar; but Dr. Dwight was too fast for him. He put a dollar into the man's hands, saying, "You promised my boy a dollar for good behavior. Give that as you promised. If, sir, we lie, our children will be liars."

☞ Proverbs.—A white glove often conceals a dirty hand. The remedies for injuries, is not to remember them. Be a friend to yourself and others will. Go to the country to hear news of the town.—Be not a baker if your head is not made of butter. Call me a cousin but cozen me not. Faint praise is disparagement.—Ask thy purse what thou shouldst buy.—Zeal without knowledge, is like fire without light. Youth and white paper soon take an impression. Vows made in storms are forgotten in calms. The Church is out of temper when charity is cold and zeal hot. The sting of reproach, is the truth of it. Envy shoots at others, and wounds herself. A goose quill is more dangerous than a lion's claw.

☞ A resolution was introduced in the Senate on Thursday, calling on the Secretary of War for a letter written to him by Gen. Scott, Oct. 4, 1861. The New York Times says:

"This letter will show that General M'Clellan treated Gen. Scott with personal disrespect while the latter was Commander-in-chief—to such an extent that a court-martial would have been demanded but for fear of injury which the consequent revulsions would do the cause in showing insubordination in an officer of such rank. It also shows Gen. Scott's determination to resign his position as soon as General Halleck should have arrived from California, to aid the government with his counsels and influence.

☞ The late Sir Robert Peel said, "I never knew a man to escape failures, in either body or mind, who worked seven days in the week."

A CARD.—
Witmer's Bridge,
Lancaster Tp. July 30, 1860.
Messrs. Evans and Watson: Gentlemen—The small size No. 1 Salamander safe which I purchased from your agent, Mr. Adam R. Barr, in Lancaster City, on July 20th, 1858, has been subjected to a very severe test, which it withstood in a most satisfactory manner. This Safe, containing all my books together with valuable papers belonging to myself and some to my neighbors and friends, and represeting a value of over Twenty Thousand Dollars, ($20,000) was in my Mill which was destroyed on the night of the 27th of July, 1860, and passed through the fiery ordeal unscathed. The Safe was on the second floor and fell to the basement of the Mill, and was subjected for six hours to an intense heat among the ruins, which was greatly increased by the combustion of a large quantity of grain confined within the brick walls. After the fire the safe was opened and the books and papers taken out in a state of perfect preservation, the paper not even being discolored. This fact was, however, to many bystanders a better recommendation of your Safes than could be expressed in any other words from me. Yours Respectfully,
[se13 SAMUEL RANCK.
