

ODDS & ENDS.

The following concluding paragraphs from the letter of General Sigel to the great meeting of the Loyal Union League, at the Cooper Institute, present a creed worthy of the assent of every loyal man:

"We must have the sharp sword as well as the sharp pen—the strong arm as well as the strong and fearless mind, to help us in this terrible struggle. The people must awaken those who sleep, and stir up those who are creeping along instead of marching onward with self-relying boldness."

"I believe in the Monroe doctrine—in the Butler code—in the President's proclamation—in the good will and perseverance of the people—in the undaunted courage of our volunteers—in the final vindication of the honest, and just, and the brave—in the liberation of the down-trodden and the slave—and in the overthrow and death of the southern oligarchy."

A Suffolk correspondent states the following incident as occurring on the sharpshooter outposts:

Conversations, jokes and bantering between the rival sharpshooters are of frequent occurrence, and sometimes are sharpened with considerable wit.

At one time during the day, in a pit near at hand, I heard a rebel snap his gun several times; but it missed fire, much to his disgust, for I could hear him swear when it failed to go off. One of our men, amused at his perplexity, called out: "Hello, Reb! where did you get your percussion caps?"

"They are Northern Copperheads," was his quick response.

"What," asked the Schoolmaster, "is the term applied to the crime of possessing two wives at one time?"

"Bigamy," replied the Scholar.

"And if there be more than two, what should you call it?"

The Scholar reflected a moment, then, changing to cast his eyes upon a map of Utah that decorated the wall, he smiled, and confidentially answered: "Brigamy, sir!"

The Schoolmaster went abroad at the earliest subsequent opportunity.

"Where's my wife?" inquired our friend Nil, on returning home early one evening and missing his better half.

"She has gone to bed with the toothache," was the reply of some member of the family.

"Well," said the indignant Nil, "if she would rather go to bed with the toothache than with me, let her go;" and he forthwith settled himself to the perusal of the latest war news.

"I consider an unmarried lady declining into the vale of years," says Goldsmith, "as one of those charming countries bordering on China, that lies waste for want of proper inhabitants. We are not to accuse the country, but some of its neighbors, who are insensible of its beauties, though at liberty to enter and cultivate the soil."

Why do those ladies who cultivate an unaturally small waist and those men (or women) who retain their cheerfulness under the severest trials, present the same problem to the "Inquiring Mind?"

Because, in both cases, the I. M. wonders how they contrive to so-lace themselves!

A Justice better versed in law than gospel married a couple in this way: "Hold up your hands. You solemnly swear that you will faithfully perform the duties of your office, jointly and severally, according to your best skill and judgment, so help you God. That's all—fee one dollar."

"It is a very singular thing," said a tailor's apprentice to his master, "that the less there is of a thing, the more there is." "How can that be?" said the tailor. "Why there's that bobtail coat—the less you make the tail, the more bob it is."

The editor of a Western paper thus introduces some verses—"The poem published this week was composed by an esteemed friend who has lain in the grave many years merely for his own amusement."

A direct descendant of Lindley Murray writes us to inquire whether, if "Saw" is the past participle of "See," a Saw-horse is the past participle of a Seahorse.

A CARD.—WITMER'S BRIDGE, Lancaster Tp. July 30, 1860. MESSRS. EVANS AND WATSON: GENTLEMEN—The small size No. 1 Salamander safe which I purchased from your agent, Mr. Adam R. Barr, in Lancaster City, on July 20th, 1858, has been subjected to a very severe test, which it withstood in a most satisfactory manner. This safe, containing all my books together with valuable papers belonging to myself and some to my neighbors and friends, and representing a value of over Twenty Thousand Dollars, ($20,000) was in my Mill which was destroyed on the night of the 27th of July, 1860, and passed through the fiery ordeal unscathed. The safe was on the second floor and fell to the basement of the Mill, and was subjected for six hours to an intense heat among the ruins, which was greatly increased by the combustion of a large quantity of grain confined within the brick walls. After the fire the safe was opened and the books and papers taken out in a state of perfect preservation, the paper not even being discolored. This fact, however, to many bystanders a better recommendation of your Safes than could be expressed in any other words from me. Yours Respectfully, SAMUEL RANCK.

A large assortment of the above quality of Fire and Thief Proof Safes always on hand and for sale at as low rates as any other firm, at EVANS & WATSON'S, No. 16 South Fourth st., Philadelphia.
