PRINCIPE OUT IN A NEW PRACES

Dr. Lawson's physician had the dreadful habit of profaue swearing .-Lawson consulted him once about his health. The physician, swearing, said : "Sir, you are the slave of a bad habit, and you will not soon recover unless you give it up." "And what is the babit?" said Law-

"Smoking," replied the other. "Well," said Lawson, "I can abandon the pipe; but will you permit me to give you a hint, too, as to a vile habit of your own ?" "What is that ?"

"I refer to your habit of profane swearing," replied the devine. "True," said the doctor; "but that is not an expensive habit, like yours." "Au, sir," said Lawson, "you will discover it to be a very expensive habit indeed when the account is handed to you."

WITNESS THREE .- Shortly before he died, Patrick Henry, laying his hand on the Bible, said :

"Here is a book worth more than all others, yet it is my sad misfortune never to have read it, until lately, with proper attention." With voice and gesture pertinent, and all his own, John Randolph said: "A terrible proof of our deep depravity is that we can relish and remember anything better that the Book."

When the shades of death were gathering around Sir Walter Scott, he said to the watcher, "Bring the Book." "What book?" asked Lockhart, his son-in-law. "There is but one Book," said the dying man. With such testimony as to the value of the Sacred Scriptures, reiterated by the great and good, in all ages, it is yet | BEST QUALITY, put up and PAINTED at a sealed book to many.

When the great American aloe, belonging to Mr. Van Rensselaer, of Albany, having been in New-York on exhibition, was on its way up the river, under the care of the gardener or keeper, a gentleman, struck with the beauty of the plant, made many inquiries regarding it. In the course of the passage, the inquirer remarked,

"This plant belongs to the cretus family, does it not, sir?" "No, sir; it belongs to the Van Rensselaer family, ' was the reply of the straight torward attendant. Three Chicago ladies were visiting together, and each had her baby, a six months' old girl, with light hair and blue eves. The little ones were laid down to sleep on a bed, while the mothers took tea; and some mischievous young fellow, who boarded in the house, changed ail the infants' clothing. The mistaken identity was not discovered until morning, and the anxious matrons suffered much consternation and several journeys in sorting out their children.

Jennie sighed, and Robin seized her pretty little trembling hand; then with clasping arms he squeezed her half reluctant form, and -- and -- "Loose me!" but he clasped the tighter; "Jennie, say, wilt thou be mine?"-then her bright face grew much brighter, and she whis-pered, "I am thine!" Then they classed bricks, and they kissed each other sound- street. ly, and-we left 'em in that fix.

have patience," said an old uncle, who had made a fortune, to a nephew who had nearly spent one. "Water may be carried in a seive, if you can only wait "

"How long?" asked the petulant spendthrift, who was impatient for the old man's oblivary. "Till it freezes!" was the uncle's cool

Quilp and his wife had a bit of have more brilliancy than I," said the woman, "but I have the better judgment." "Yes," said Quilp, "our choice of marriage would show that."

Counsel-"Now, sir, on your oath, were you not born in Pennsylvania?" Witness, in a selemn tone-"Although present at the event, I swear on my oath

I have no recollection of the fact." The following is a true copy of a sign on an academy out west: "Freeman & Huggs, school teachers-Freeman teaches the boys and Huggs the girls."
