Letter from our Soldiers. CAMP IN THE FIELD, ALABAMA, August 13, 1863.

Correspondence of The Alleghanian. Thinking a few lines from the Army of he Cumberland-from Co. C, 19th Regulars-might not prove uninteresting to your readers, I take the liberty of addresing you. You are doubtless aware that after the battle of Stone river we lay some six months at Murfreesboro without moving. The orders to march came at last on the 24th June. The morning we left camp it commenced raining, and rain was the programme for twenty-two days. This made our situation very uncomfortable, notwithstanding which the boys remained in the best of spirits and were eager for the fray. The roads soon became almost impassible, and our trains were greatly delayed, which accounts for plank house and cabin barn. Bragg's escape. You are aware of what took place during the Rebel general's retreat, so it is unnecessary for me to give particulars. Suffice it to say that, in the peration of skedaddling, he lost some ive thousand men.

expect some news from this department stable. soon which will cause a thrill of joy to enetrate every loyal heart and give the opperheads reason to skulk dismayed to heir holes.

Talking of Copperheads: If these isloyal gentry only knew the true feelings the soldiers towards them, it would e them but little consolation. But half story frame house. perhaps, to men so lost to all feelings of patriotism and principle as to sympathize with armed treason, it makes but little would sooner, possibly, bask in the good gaces of Jeff. Davis, the Devil, and others of like ilk, than have the respect of the loyal and honest. If so, we avowourselves unable to cope with the difficulty-they are beyond the reach of mora! surgeryso we are obliged to leave them to Jeff story frame house. Davis and the Devil.

We in the army have some respect for those in arms against us. They at least have the courage to meet us in a fair field. But for those cowardly miscreauts who bria township, one acre, with old house stab their country and its cause in the back we have none. They are beneath for the words and deeds of their slimy house. progenitors will be a stumbling-block in their path forever.

One consolation to us is, that the Copthe loyal States. Abraham Lincoln was on Monday, 7th September, prox. : constitutionally elected President of these United States-that all men know-and as such should be obeyed. When the proper time arrives, if the majority of the American people desire a change of measures and men, they can have it, and we will give them our hearty support. In the meantime, we are bound by every dictate of honor and duty to support those in athority over us.

There is certainly some difference, as regards pleasure, between a soldier's life and that of a citizen—the difference preconderating in favor of the latter. Now, such as we desire to return to our friends and homes, I am free to say that, so long Jackson there is an armed traitor above ground, is our determination to remain fighting | Peat or the old flag our fore-fathers bequeathed Myers et al. that priceless emblem of a liberty Weiller chieved after eight long years of priva- Ross for use on and suffering. The Rebellion must | Mullen put down at any cost. To see our Bendon lorious old banner once more floating wer every foot of Uncle Sam's farmot a single star of its bright constellation rased nor a stripe obscured-would more han doubly repay us for all efforts direced in that behalf. And these are the ntiments of nine-tenths of the Army of e Cumberland.

Yours, &c., THOMAS DAVIS.

THE DRAFT.—On our opposite page we print the names of the persons in this county who were so "fortunate" as to at the Court House, Ebensburg, on Mon- draw prizes in the late draft. The drawing came off at Huntingdon on Thursday George Gates, Yoder township, 300 last, and was conducted throughout with acres, 25 acres cleared, with small cabin entire fairness. The manner of proceeding was about in this wise: The names George Gates, Conemaugh township, of all those liable to the draft, in each sub-district, were first placed in the wheel; story frame house, log barn, spring house a blind man was then blindfolded, who, after the wheel had undergone a complete Samuel Henshey, Clearfield township, revolution, would draw forth a ticket; this ticket was read aloud, spelled, subjected to the scrutiny of the judges, and George C. K. Zahm, Ebensburg, piece finally passed to the clerks to be entered down. Thus, until the quota of each sub-district had been drawn.

The total number drawn from the county was 781, which includes the fifty per cent excess to cover exemptions.

Four citizens of this county, namely, Messrs. A. A. Barker, Wm. Kittell, C. L. Pershing and John M. Bowman, were present by special invitation to witness and participate in the drawing.

In this borough the number drawn was 21, politically classified as follows: 10 Democrats, 10 Unionists, 1 Negro-the latter the only one in town, by the way. Lawyers, merchants, carpenters, laborers -almost every profession and class was levied upon for contributions. No less than three printers were drafted-which is rather a "big thing" on the art-preservative confraternity. In the county, four ministers of the Gospel were also "ealled." Truly, the presiding deity of the draft-stone-blind Chance-is no respecter of persons!

There was no disturbance nor sign of disturbance manifest at the drawing. On If I am not greatly mistaken, you may a half story plank house and large frame the contrary, everything passed off quietly and in order. It is, furthermore, noticeable that there is now no talk of "resistings of the law. The conviction has impressed itself on every mind that one of three things has to be done-put on a "sub," pay $300, or go. And, like good township, 146 perches, with one and a men and patriots, they hold themselves prepared for the execution of one of the Executor of John R. Williams, dec'd. alternatives.

Subjects for General Discussion : Resolved. that public school exhibitions are injurious. What books on Teaching should be read by the Teacher?

The understanding at the last Institute was, that the next session would be held at Loretto; but this was found to be impracticable, by reason that no building of a suitable character could be secured in | dec'd. s Co. the village. Wilmore, occupying a central position as regards the county at large, will be found to be a good exchange.

> -After a long continued stretch of extremely dry weather, extending over a period of several weeks, on Monday the floodgates of heaven were opened upon us after a truly refreshing style. The rain poured down in torrents Monday evening and all day Tuesday, and we have been favored with intermittent storms and showers ever since. The effect of this for good can scarcely be conceived-at the
