The following extract, from the Vicksburg correspondence of a Western journal, forcibly illustrates one of the pleasant peculiarities of Geo. Francis Train's "divine institution :"

A gallant young soldier was prospect-ing around town, the other morning, when his attention was attracted to a stable of very fine horses. While admiring their fine points, he was surprised by the appearance of a very fascinating young lady, as she emerged from another apartment of the horse-house, and bowed politely and smiled killingly upon him. He stammered out something like an apology for his seeming intrusion, mixing up the words "proclamation" and "confiscation," &c., and ending by asking who was the owner of the place.

"Dr. Neely," replied the lady. "And you—you are his wife?" said the soldier, doubtfully.

"No," answered the lady. "Then his daughter?"-this was said very smilingly. "No." "His niece, perhaps ?"-endearingly. "No; no relation, that I know of."

"Then a lady friend, on a vist?"puzzingly. "No, not that, either."

"Well, then, may I be permitted to ask who you are?" "Certainly," replied the lady, who had enjoyed the soldier's discomfiture with a piquant relish, "I am his slave." The soldier gave one long, last, lingering look, and with a low whistle, departed.

A reliable traveler states that, at a Mississippi hotel, printed bills of fare were provided, yet the landlord stood at the head of the table, at dinner, and in a loud voice read off the list of edibles in a rhyming way: "Here boiled ham, and raspberry jam; baked potatoes and cooked tomatoes; turnips smashed and squashes equashed," and so on. A stranger asked him, afterward, why he read it aloud, when printed copies were on the table .-"Force of habit," replied the landlord; "got so used to it I can't help it. You see, I commenced business down here at Jackson," (the capital of Mississippi,) "and most all the legislature boarded with me. There wasn't a man of 'em could read, so I had to read the bill of fare to 'em !"

Embalming, which is coming much into practice of late, is as follows: "The modern embalmer finds an artery into which he can place the nozzle of an injecting syringe. The artery in the upper part of the arm, called the brachial, or the artery in the neck, the carotid, answers JOHNSTOWN STOVE & HOUSE-FURNISHthe purpose. Into this artery the embalming fluid is injected, until it permeates every structure. The solution employed sometimes retains its fluidity; sometimes it is so constructed that while warm it is fluid, but on cooling it sets and becomes more or less hard. After the injection the artery is closed, the opening through the skin is neatly sewn up, and the operation is complete."

The Providence Journal records the following: A drafted Irishman called upon one of our lawyers on Saturday, and desired to have papers prepared claiming exemption from military service, for the several reasons which he named: 1. That he was the only son of a widow dependent upon him for support; 2. That his father was in such infirm health as to be unable to get his own living; and 3. That he had two brothers in the service, all of east of Thompson's Hotel. which facts Patrick desired then and there to verify by affidavit.

The Shakers at Lebanon Springs, N. Y., among their rules relating to visitors, have the following : "Married persons tarrying with us over night are respectfully notified that each sex will occupy separate apartments while they remain. The rule will not be departed from under any circumstances." This was read to a married lady, once upon a time, whereupon she immediately exclaimed-"How very foolish, isn't it?" To be sure:

A Pike's Peaker writing to a Minnesota journal, says the miners are very much discouraged in that region; they have to dig through a solid vein of silver four feet thick before they reach the gold.

Cooper once slurred a certain Particular attention paid to diseases of the Governor by attributing the disease in Mouth. Teeth extracted with electrical for potatoes to the "mortification they felt at seeing so small a member of their family in the gubernatorial chair."

A CARD.— WITMER'S BRIDGE, Lancaster Tp. July 30, 1860. MESSES. EVANS AND WATSON: GENTLEMEN-The small size No. 1 Salamander safe which i jurchased from your agent, Mr. Adam R. Bar, in Lancaster City, on July 20th, 1858, has been subjected to a very severe test, which it withstood in a most satisfactory manner. This Safe, containing all my books together with valuable papers belonging to myself and some to my neighbors and friends, and represeting a value of over Twenty Thousand Dollars, ($20,000) was in my Mill which was destroyed on the ni 't of the 27th of July, 1860, and passed thro h the fiery order! unscathed. The Safe was the second floor and fell to the basement or . . Mill, and was subjected for six hours to an intense heat among the rulas, which was greatly increased by the combustion of a large quantity of grain confined within the brick walls After the fire the safe was opened and the books and papers taken out in a state of perfect preservation, the paper not even being discolored. This fact was, however, to many bystanders a better recommendation of your Sa'es than
