THE NEW FRACTIONAL CURRENCY .-The statement that the new fractional currency is to be withdrawn is incorrect. On the contrary, the issue which has already begun will be continued as fast as the notes can be prepared. Some of the objections which have been made to it are unfounded; and although it must be admitted that it is not handsome, it is believed that it offers special security against counterfeiting, particularly by the dangerous processes of photography. The bronzed ring or seal on the fractional notes, which has been criticised as an unsuccessful attempt at ornament, is put on with no view to that design, but solely to prevent counterfeiting by photography. It is the mark of a yellow mordant, which bites into the very substance of the note, afterwards bronzed, but always yellow, and which, like all yellows, inevitably appear | Trimmed complete, with baking arrangements, as black in a photograph.

The same effect will be produced even after the bronze is worn off, when the vellow basis of the ring will appear. The denomination of each note is printed with a similar mordant, in outline letters, furnishing an additional protection against counterfeiting. The faces of all the notes are printed in black, and the backs in different colors, according to the denomination. The fifty cent pieces have red backs, the twenty-fives purple, the tens green and the fives tan color. The paper is of a peculiar manufacture, remarkably heavy, and it is believed that it will be readily distinguished from other paper by the touch.

"THE SMITHS."-John Smith-plain John Smith-is not very high sounding ; it does not suggest aristocracy; it is not the name of any hero in die-away novels; and yet it is good, strong and honest .-Transferred to other language it seems to BEST QUALITY, put up and PAINTED at climb the ladder of respectability. Thus in Latin it is Johannes Smithus; the Dutchman adopts it as Hans Schmidt; the French flatten it out into Jean Smeet; and the Russian sneezes and barks Jonloff Smittowski. When John gets into the tea trade in Canton he becomes John Shimmit; if he clambers about Mount Hecla, the Icelanders say he is Jahne Smithson; if he trades among the Tuscaroras he becomes Ton Qa Smittia; in Poland he is known as Ivan Schmittiweiski; Jelly Cake Moulds, Table and Tea Spoons should he wander among the Welsh mountains they talk of Jihon Schmidd; when he goes to Mexico he is booked as Jontli F'Smitti; if of classic turn he lingers among Greek ruins he turns to 'Ion Smikton, and in Turkey he is utterly disguised as Yeo Seef.

THE PRESIDENTIAL STYLE IN OLDEN TIMES .- We noticed the President's carriage the other day as it rolled up the avenue, and thought how people would have stared and talked if attached to it there had been four or six instead of two horses. General Washington, we are told, when driving about the country, drove four horses, and in going to the Senate he used a chariot drawn by six horses. His servants wore liveries of white cloth, trimmed with scarlet or orange. And yet there was no inordinate love of display in the heart of the "Father of his Country." It was his sense of the dignity of the office he filled which made him so punctilious in such matters. And yet public opinion or sentiment--call it what we may-would not brook any such departure from the present usage; but we do not quarrel with the popular notion upon this subject. We only state the fact .- Wash. Chroncle.
