At the contractor's establishment they are thoroughly dissected. First the shoes are pulled off; they are usually worth fifty cents a set. Then the hoofs are cut off: they bring about two dollars a set .-Then comes the caudal appendage, worth half a dollar. Then the hide-- I don't know what that sells for. Then the tallow, if it be possible to extract tallow from the doubtful, unless he die immediately after entering the service. And last but not least, the shin-bones are valuable, being convertible into a variety of articles that many believe to be composed of pure ivory, such as cane heads, knife handles, &c .-By the time the contracter gets through with the "late lamented" steed, there is Chimneys and Wicks for Lamps always on hardly enough of him left to feed a bull-

Hereafter, kind reader, when you see a dead "hoss" don't turn up your nose at foundation for a large fortune in a single year. He may, individually, be a nuisance, but "there is that within which passeth show"-$100,000 a year.

THE PRESIDENT'S LAST - A New England gentleman called at the White House to propose a new plan for capturing Richmond.

"I know, Mr. President," said he, "that the prisoners and the contrabands there. are able to overpower the garrison-so all that you have to do is to let Gen. Meade make a diversion against Lee's army, and then let Gen. Butler go up the James river to co-operate with the Unionists."

"I have great confidence in General Butler," replied Mr. Lincoln, "but I am not so sure about Richmond. Your plan reminds me of a story of a lot of Methodist ministers, who were the trustees of a Western college. It so happened that this college was connected with a neighboring town by a bridge, and that this bridge was subject to be carried away by freshets. At last they held a special session to receive the plans of a noted bridge builder, a good mechanic, but a rather profaue man.

" 'Can you build this bridge?' asked a reverend gentleman.

"Build it! bluntly replied the mechanic, 'I could build a bridge to hell.' "This herrified the trustees, and after the bridge builder had retired, the minister who had recommended him thought proper to apologize.

" I feel confident," said he, 'that our In at Law, Johnstown Pa. Office on Main energetic friend could build a safe bridge street. to Hades, although I am not so sare of the abutment on the other side.'

"And so with your plan," concluded the east of Thompson's Hotel. President; "I have great confidence in Gen. Butler, but doubt the strength of the Unionists in Richmond."

"SUM SOUL."-Artemas Ward relates that he was fixing himself up lately to attend a great war meeting, when his daughter entered his room with a young R. L. JOHNSTON. man, who was evidently from the city, and who were long hair and had a wild expression in his eye. In one hand he carried a portfolio, and in his other clasped a bunch of roses. The daughter introduced him as Mr. Sweiber, the distinguished landscape painter from New York.

"He is an artist, papa," said the daughter. "Here is one of his masterpieces-a young woman gazing admiringly upon her first born," and she exhibited a painting done in oil. "Is it not beautiful,

"He does, does he?" quoth Artemas; "well, I recken I'd better hire him to white-wash our fence-it needs it. What will you charge to throw sum soul into my his professional services to the ladies and genfence, ch?"

her, and from the emphatic manner in ceps. which the door slammed, Artemas concluded she was somewhat disgusted with his

CARD .-WITMER'S BRIDGE. Lancaster Tp. July 30, 1860. MESSES. EVANS AND WATSON: GENTLEMEN-The small size No. 1 Salamander safe which I purchased from your agent, Mr. Adam B Bar, in Lancaster City, on July 20th, 1858, has been subjected to a very severe test which it withstood in a most satisfactory manner. This Safe, containing all my books together with valuable papers belonging and represeting a value of over Twenty Thous and fell to the basement of the Mill, and was subjected for six bours to an intense heat among the ruins, which was greatly increased by the combustion of a large quantity of grant confined within the brick walls. After the fire the safe was opened and the books and papers taken out in a state of perfect preset vation, the paper not even being discolores This fact was, however, to many bystanders a better recommendation of your Safes than could be expressed in any other words from me. Yours Respectfully, SAMUEL RANCK A large assortment of the above qui ity of Fire and Thief Proof Safes always hand and for sale at as low rates as any other EVANS & WATSON'S.
