

ODDS & ENDS.

PAY OF NEGRO SOLDIERS.—The country will approve the action of Congress in deciding to pay negro soldiers the same wages, clothing, bounty, &c., as their white comrades. It is a deed of long delayed justice. There never existed any reason, except the base prejudice against an oppressed people, why all soldiers of the Republic, who are engaged in fighting its battles and defending its life, should not receive the same pay and bounty.—Our black soldiers, to the number of at least 100,000, constitute to day a powerful military adjunct and support of the Government. But for them the draft would long ere this have fallen with terrible severity on every State in the North. To object to their enlistment was madness or worse; to refuse to pay them the same compensation as white soldiers was the height of ingratitude. We rejoice, therefore, that, at last, Congress has resolved to deal justly with those who are alike entitled to our sympathy for their sufferings under Rebel taskmasters and to our gratitude for their heavy blows in behalf of the Union.

Mr. Lincoln gets up at five, breakfasts at seven, sends his private correspondence at eight, receives visitors at nine, and the members of his Cabinet at ten.—At one o'clock he takes a light lunch, and then starts in the performance of the responsible duty of President. He goes from Department to Department, and assists his Ministers in what he calls "running the machine." At five o'clock he takes his dinner, which sometimes lasts till seven. From seven to ten he admits to his private circles his most intimate friends, and among them Senators and Members of Congress. At ten he retires, to commence the next day again the same kind of work. In his hours of ease, when free from restraint, Mr. Lincoln is unusually talkative, jocular, and good natured, and is in the habit of reviewing his past history, and of speaking of his life in the woods and on the river, when he was an obscure boatman.

On one occasion, Marshal Bosquet, the hero of the Malakoff, when a Colonel in Algiers, dispatched a sous-lieutenant to execute a commission, but through want of ability or from error in comprehending, he performed it completely contrary to orders. When he rendered his report the Colonel gave way to his anger, and struck him with his riding whip a severe blow. Quick as lightning, the young officer drew a pistol and snapped it close to the head of his superior officer. Luckily the cap was wet and did not explode, or Bosquet would never have lived to become a Marshal of France. All the spectators trembled with emotion. The officer waited to hear the order for his arrest, but he did not wait long.

"Lieutenant," said the Colonel, calm as a summer's day, "you will suffer forty-eight hours' confinement for having your arms in bad condition."

It is said that while Col. Straight was in Libby, he was frequently sent for by the rebel authorities, in order that they might consult and insult him. The Colonel soon began to suspect that their design was to ascertain something concerning the spirit and temper of the Northern people. Their frequent calls annoyed him, and one day upon being ordered to headquarters, and asked if the North ever expected to subjugate the South," replied: "We have been fighting you now a little less than three years, and have subjugated three-fourths of your territory and put one-half of your fighting population on crutches or in their graves, and I think by G—, that in three years more we can finish you up!" That ended the interview.

Josh Billings says: "The best kind of a dog tew hev fur awl purposes is a wooden one. That don't kuz much, and ain't liable to get out or repair. They are easy kep, and yu always know where to find them. Tha ain't kross to children when yu step on thare tales. Bi awl means git a smole one. I never knew one ov this bread to folley enybody oph."

A tribe of dwarfs has been found in Africa, whose cars reach to the ground, and are so wide that when they lie down, one car serves as a mattress, the other as a covering! So says Petherie in his new work on "Central Africa," giving as his authority "an old negro who has been a great traveler."

A CARD.—WINTER'S BRIDGE, Lancaster Tp. July 30, 1860. MESSRS. EVANS AND WATSON: GENTLEMEN—The small size No. 1 Salamander safe which I purchased from your agent, Mr. Adam R. Barr, in Lancaster City, on July 20th, 1859, has been subjected to a very severe test, which it withstood in a most satisfactory manner. This safe, containing all my books together with valuable papers belonging to myself and some to my neighbors and friends and representing a value of over Twenty Thousand Dollars, ($20,000) was in my Mill which was destroyed on the night of the 27th of July, 1860, and passed through the fiery ordeal unscathed. The safe was on the second floor and fell to the basement or the Mill, and was subjected for six hours to an intense heat among the ruins, which was greatly increased by the combustion of a large quantity of grain confined within the brick walls. After the fire the safe was opened and the books and papers taken out in a state of perfect preservation, the paper not even being discolored. This fact was, however, to many bystanders a better recommendation of your Safes than could be expressed in any other words from me. Yours Respectfully, SAMUEL RANCK. A large assortment of the above quality of Fire and Thief Proof Safes always on hand and for sale at as low rates as any other firm, at EVANS & WATSON'S, No. 16 South Fourth st., Philadelphia.

1864. TINWARE! 1864. SHEET-IRON WARE. COPPER WARE. J. & H. HERRINGTONS Desire to call the attention of the public to their new TIN SHOP now opened in the large brick building on the corner of Main and Franklin streets opposite the Mansion House and next to the Banking house of Bell, Smith & Co., Johnstown Pa., where they purpose manufacturing all kinds of TIN, SHEET-IRON AND COPPER WARE. Their work will be made by the best workmen and of the best materials. They are determined to sell all kinds of ware at the cheapest rates, wholesale and retail. P. S.—All orders for SPOUTING attended to on the shortest notice and on reasonable terms. Johnstown, December 8, 1859-tf.
