Knowlton continued his experiments. He took no part in parades or targetshootings, and in a short time afterwards he secured a patent for a machine that turns any material whatever, into a perfeetly spherical form. He sold a portion of his patent for a sum that is equivalent to a fortune. The machine is now in operation in Philadelphia, cleaning off can-non balls for the government. When the ball comes in from the mould, the surface is crusted, and the ordinary process of smoothing it was slow and wearisome .-This machine, almost in an instant, and with mathematical accuracy, peels it to the surface of the metal, at the same time smoothing out any deviations from the perfect spheroidal form.

Within a few days the same plain, unassuming man has invented a boring machine, that was tested in the presence of a number of scientific gentlemen, a few days ago. It bored at the rate of twenty-two inches an hour, through a block of granite, with a pressure of but three hundred pounds upon the drill. A gentleman present offered him ten thousand dollars upon the spot for a part interest in the invention in Europe, and the offer was accepted on the spot. The moral of this is, that people who keep on studying are sure to achieve something. Mr. Knowlton does not consider himself by any means brilliant, but if once inspired with an idea, he pursues it until he forces it into tangible shape. If everybody would follow copy, the world would be less filled with idlers, and the streets with grumblers and malcontents.

EXCELLENT MAXIMS .- The following is a copy of the printed slip found in the pocket of the venerable Stephen Allen, drowned in the recent steamboat disaster on the Hudson river:

"Keep good company or none. Never be idle. If your hands cannot be usefully employed, attend to the cultivation of your mind. Always speak the truth .-Make few promises. Live up to your engagements. Keep your own secrets, if you have any. When you speak to a person, look him in the face. Good company and good conversation are the very sinews of virtue. Good character is above all things else. Your character cannot be essentially injured except by your own acts. If any one speaks evil of you, let your life be so that none will believe him. Drink street. no kind of intoxicating liquors. Ever live (misfortunes excepted) within your income. When you retire to bed, think over what you have been doing during the day. Make no haste to be rich, if you would prosper. Small and steady gains give competency with tranquility of mind. Never play at any game of chance. Avoid temptation, through fear you may not withstand it. Earn money before you spend it. Never run in debt, unless you. R. L. JOHNSTON. see a way to get out again. Never borrow, if you can possibly avoid it. Do not Ehenshurg Combrie coun marry until you are able to support a wile. Never speak evil of any one. Be just before you are generous. Keep yourself innecent, if you would be happy .-Save when you are young, to spend when you are old. Read over the above maxims at least once a week.

THE NEW COIN .- A few specimens of the new three cent coin are in circulation .-The size of the piece is precisely that of a dime. The obverse bears the head of the goddess of liberty, with the legend 1865. The reverse has the Roman nu- Row. merals "111," surrounded by a wreath.-The edge of the coin is plain, unlike that of the ten cent piece, which is milled .-When new the piece has a silvery lustre, but tarnishes rapidly. The law authorizing the issue of this coin, passed March 3, 1865, makes it a legal tender for all sums not exceeding sixty cents, and prohibits any further issue of three cent fractional currency.
