or representation that Shakespeare ever wrote." No sconer had he made this remark than a huge, red-headed, broad-shouldered Irishman, who sat immediately behind him, leaned forward and tapped him on the shoulder to secure his attention.

"I think, sir," he observed, with a strong brogue, "ye said it was one Shakespeare what wraught that play. It was not Shakspeare what wraught that play." "Oh, sir," replied Mr. K., coolly,

"very well." A short time after this the Irishman tapped him on the shoulder again.

"Do you belave, sir, it was my friend, Linnard M'Laily, what wraught that "Oh, yes, certainly, sir-if you say so," was the peaceful answer. For a while he remained unmolested. but at last he felt the heavy fingers once

"Your friend that gets on your left hand," exclaimed the Irishman, "don't look as if he belaved it was me friend

Linnard M'Nally what wraught that play!" This was too much for the brothers, who rose and left the house, not deeming it either pleasant or safe to stay in such | days' notice. belligerent society.

THE WAY OF THE WORLD .- A correspondent, alluding to the fact that the most of the calls which modern clergymen feel imperatively bound to obey, are from comparatively low salaries to high ones, says that those calls remind him of the honest old negro's anecdote. . It was as follows:

A certain divine, having concluded to change his pastoral situation, mentioned his determination from the pulpit. After service was over, an old negro, who was one of his admirers, went up to him and MINER'S LAMPS, desired to know his motives in leaving his flock. The parson answered, "He had a call."

"Where from, massa?" said the negro. "The Lord," answered the parson.

"Six hundred dollars, Cæsar."

"And what you get toder place?" "A thousand."

"Ah, massa, de Lord might call you all day from $1,000 to $600-you no go."

A Boy's Lawsuir .- Under a great tree close to the village, two boys found a walnut. "It belongs to me," said Ignatius, "for I was the first to see it." "No, it belongs to me," cried Bernard, "for I was the first to pick it up," and so they began to quarrel in carnest. "I will settle the dispute," said the elder boy, who just came up. He placed himseif between the two boys, broke the nut in two, and said: "The one piece of shell belongs to the one who first saw the put; the other piece of shell belongs to him who first picked it up, and the kernel I keep for judging the case. And this," as he sat of most lawsuits."

WATERFALLS .- Master Willie had lately seen and heard much of the "Waterfalls" with which the young ladies nowa- street. days adorn the backs of their heads.

His attention was fully awake on the subject. One muddy day he saw on the road a horse whose careful groom had braided and knotted up his switch-tail .-Willie cried, "Oh! pana, papa! see that horse! He's got a waterfall to his tail!"

While Father Taylor was giving one of his temperance lectures, a well known drunkard, feeling touched, commenced hissing. Instantly Father Taylor turned the attention of the large audience to the insolent rowdy, and then forcibly said as he pointed to his victim, "There's a red nose got into cold water; don't you hear it hiss?"

WIFMER'S BRIDGE, CARD. Lancaster Tp. July 30, 1860. MESSRS. EVANS AND WATSON: GENTLEMEN-The small size No. 1 Salamander safe which I purchased from your agent, Mr. Adam R. Barr, in Lancaster City, on July 20th, 1858, has been subjected to a very severe test, which it withstood in a most satisfactory manner. This Safe, containing all my books together with valuable papers belonging to myself and some to my neignbors and friends and represeting a value of over Twenty Thousand Dollars, ($20,000) was in my Mill which was destroyed on the night of the 27th of July, 1860 and passed through the fiery ordes!

unscathed. The Safe was on the second floor and fell to the besement or the Mill, and was subjected for six hours to an intense heat

among the ruids, which was greatly increased by the combustion of a large quantity of grain confined within the brick walls After the fire the safe was opened and the books and papers taken out in a state of perfect preservation, the paper not even being discolored This fact was, however, to many bystanders a better recommendation of your Sa'es than could be expressed in any other words from Yours Respectfully, SAMUEL RANCK. 189.
