

A MAGNANIMOUS DANE.—During the wars that raged from 1622 to 1660, between Frederick II. of Denmark and Charles Gustavus of Sweden, after a battle, in which the victory had remained with the Danes, a stout burgher of Flemish-borg was about to refresh himself, ere retiring to have his wounds dressed, with a draught of beer from a wooden bottle, when an imploring cry from a wounded Swede lying on the field made him turn with the very words of Sidney—"Thy need is greater than mine." He knelt down by the fallen enemy, to pour the liquor in his mouth. His requital was a pistol-shot in the shoulder from the treacherous Swede.

"Rascal!" he cried, "I would have befriended you, and you would murder me in return. Now I will punish you. I would have given you the whole bottle, but now you shall have only half." And drinking off half, he gave the rest to the Swede.

The king, hearing the story, sent for the burgher, and asked him how he came to spare the life of such a rascal.

"Sir," said the honest burgher, "I could never kill a wounded enemy."

"Thou meritest to be made a noble," the king said, and created him one immediately, giving him as an armorial bearing a wooden bottle pierced with an arrow.

MARRIAGE NOTICES.—The following we clip from an exchange paper, and respectfully recommend its careful perusal by those of our friends "contemplating" matrimony:

"All notices of marriages, where no bride-cake is sent, will be set up in small type and poked in some outlandish corner of the paper. Where a handsome piece of cake is sent, it will be put conspicuously in large letters; when gloves or other bride favors are added, a piece of illustrative poetry will be given in addition. When, however, the editor attends the ceremony in propria persona, and kisses the bride, it will have special notice—very large type, and the most appropriate poetry that can be begged, borrowed, stolen or coined from the brain editorial."

HOW ARE YOU, CLERK?—We haven't heard of a richer thing than was lately perpetrated upon a bookstore clerk something less than a thousand miles from Genesee-street bridge. Everybody has heard jokes perpetrated upon the odd names which it is the fashion to bestow upon books now-a-days, but, we venture to say, nothing richer than this incident.—A well known wag stepped into the bookstore above mentioned, and inquired: "Have you 'The Woman in White'?" "Yes," replied the clerk. "All Alone?" asked the searcher after literature. "Yes," responded the clerk. "In the Dark?" still queried the questioner. "Yes, Sir," again promptly answered the attendant. "Well, all I have to say is," retorted the wag, "you have a nice thing of it! Good bye!"

MAD ANTHONY'S TRICK.—In our Revolutionary war, the British held possession of a strong-hold which our forces could not gain without a knowledge of how matters were conducted inside. Anthony Wayne, "Mad Anthony," as he was called, undertook this delicate and dangerous service. He spoke Dutch like a native; and getting into a cart, he loaded it with cabbages, and started for the fort. So complete was his disguise, that no suspicion was entertained. He brought just what the garrison needed; he took time to peddle them all out and was suffered to depart. The next day the fort was taken, when the officer recognized Wayne at the head, and very coolly asked—"Sir, how do you sell cabbage to-day?"

A DISAGREEABLE SENSATION.—A man coming home late one night, a little more than "half seas over," feeling thirsty, procured a glass of water and drank it.—In doing so, he swallowed a small ball of silk which lay in the bottom of the tumbler, the end catching in his teeth. Feeling something in his mouth, and not knowing what it was, he began pulling at the end, and the ball unrolling, he soon had several feet of the silk in his hand.

"Wife! wife!" he shouted, at the top of his voice, "I say wife, come down here—I'm all unraveling!"

A CARD.— Witmer's Bridge, Lancaster Tp. July 30, 1860. Messrs. EVANS AND WATSON: GENTLEMEN.—The small size No. 1 Salamander saddle I purchased from your agent, Mr. Adams, in Lancaster City, on July 20th, 1860, has been subjected to a very severe trial, which it withstood in a most admirable manner. This Saddle, containing all my property, together with valuable papers belonging to myself and some to my neighbors, and representing a value of over Twenty Dollars, ($20.00) was in my Mill on the night of the 27th of July, 1860, and passed through the fire unscathed. The Saddle was on the second floor of the mill, and fell to the basement of the mill, and was subjected for six hours to a most severe trial, by the combustion of a large quantity of wood, which raised the temperature of the fire to such a degree, that the paper not even being damaged. This fact was, however, to many persons, a better recommendation of your Saddle, than could be expressed in any other manner. Yours respectfully, SAMUEL BAWDWIN.

A large assortment of the above property, and Thief Proof Safes also on hand and for sale at as low rates as any firm, at
