

EBENSBURG AND CRESSON RAILROAD. After Monday, March 12th, 1866, on this road will run as follows: EBENSBURG—connecting with Day Ex. East and Balt. Ex. West. 2:30 P. M., connecting with Altoona Accom. West and East.

THE PRESS IN EBENSBURG.—“I have appealed to the Judges of the Court of Common Pleas in and for the county of Cambria for the benefit of the laws made for the relief of insolvent debtors, and have appointed Tuesday, the 18th of January next, to hear me.”

It was the announcement made by Thomas Foley to his creditors on the 15th of December, 1819. In those days, and in which continued to come and go for long years thereafter, to be unfortunate in business transactions was thought to be as Whittier so beautifully expresses it, public opinion “dared as to brand, the chastening of the Almighty's hand.”

Thomas Foley, who had been chastened by the Almighty's hand to the extent that he was unable to meet his debts, was paying the penalty of misfortune, as imposed by an unjust law, by pining in solitude behind the bars of a dark, dank dungeon. His announcement to his creditors was dated in a cell within the Ebensburg Gaol!

On the 18th day of January, 1820, Thomas Foley and his impudent creditors—the persecutors and persecutives—were to face in the Court House, the records of the Prothonotary's office of Cambria county, we take following memorandum of the proceedings then and there had:

Adjourning Court held at Ebensburg, January, 1820; A. Hildebrand, presiding and George Roberts, Esq., present:—Thomas Foley, an insolvent debtor, appears in Court. It appearing to the Court he had applied with the order thereof, was not granted. The Court appoint the 12th of February next to hear him and his creditors.

“The order thereof” was an order entered on the petition for relief, directing the petitioner to file an inventory of his estate the means whereby he became insolvent, &c.

On the 12th February, 1820—The Court met, and appoint the 21st instant to hear him and his creditors.

On the 21st February, 1820—The Court met agreeably to adjournment, and heard the said Thomas Foley from himself, but the same not to affect the rights of creditors residing in the city or county of Philadelphia, unless it shall appear that notice was given them. Said Foley assigns his property to John Murray, for the use of his creditors, and takes the oath of discharge. Trustee to give the oath.

“The oath” taken was to the effect that he would deliver up and transfer to his creditors, for the use of his creditors, all his property, rights and claims of which he was at that time possessed, &c., &c. Thomas Foley, stripped of all his possessions, came forth from the gaol cell which he had occupied at two months, into the God-given sun of personal freedom. In the intercourse and civilization, he had the attempt to light a torch which illumine with its rays a barren and dark region, but the attempt proved a failure—the torch went out in darkness and hands. Ever since the world bewails of success has met the one of contempt. Poor Foley, when avaricious scheme for the intellectual degradation of his neighbors fell dead, he was obliged to drink to the very dregs the bitter cup. He was not only held up as an object for scorn to point her slow, living finger at, but by the savage treatment of his contemporaries, whom he had so signally befriended, he tlement” numbered a half-dozen. One of these early houses was built on or very near the site of the dwelling-house at present occupied by Mr. Morgan Humphreys, in the extreme East Ward. In this house, in 1818, the Olive Branch was born, and for a time was published.

The first house erected in Ebensburg after its incorporation as a borough, in 1804, was the stone one on High street, one door west of Mr. E. Hughes' store. This house, which is still standing, though worn and battered out of shape by the storms of more than a half century, was also built by Rees Lloyd, who, with his sons, carried in leather aprons from the quarry the stones whereof it is constructed. A round stone in the chimney bears the inscription, yet plain and legible—“R. L. 1805.” Here, the publication of the Olive Branch was continued until, in 1820, the paper died.

Foley was born in Ireland. Coming to America, he first settled in Philadelphia, where it is probable he learned the printing business. He came direct from Philadelphia to Ebensburg. Shaking the dust of this to him inhospitable place off his feet after his pecuniary misfortunes, he betook himself to the far West, probably to Iowa. What became of him subsequent to this is imperfectly known, though we have heard it stated that he ultimately returned to the land of his birth. At the time he extended his Olive Branch to the people of this section, he was about thirty years old—if living now, he would be almost an octogenarian. He was a married man.

And thus ended the first lesson. The elements necessary to the successful establishing of the Press in Ebensburg were lacking forty-seven years ago, and neither the well-grounded hope of seeing a large and prosperous town grow up around him in time, nor the promise of the “county printing,” could save the adventurous typographer from financial shipwreck. But though his experiment in this behalf, and with it his fondest and most cherished hopes and aspirations, was doomed to untimely blight, and though he went forth from the scene of his labors penniless and cast down, yet the name of Thomas Foley will ever remain bright and be honored by those who appreciate and love high and noble endeavors.

The announcement was made to the Conference of the death during the preceding year of Rev. J. Shane, formerly pastor in charge of the M. E. Church in Ebensburg.

HOUSER AND BUSER—THEIR DEATH WARRANTS SIGNED!—The death warrants of Houser and Buser were signed by Governor Curtin on Saturday last, and are now in the hands of Sheriff Myers. The day appointed for the execution is Friday, 20th April, proximo—four weeks from to-morrow. The end rapidly draws nigh!

OUR JOHNSTOWN LETTER. MAN KILLED ON THE RAILROAD—THE “STRIKE” OF THE HEATERS—PERSONAL, &c., &c. JOHNSTOWN, March 19, 1866.

A brakeman named James Wilson was instantly killed on the Pennsylvania Railroad near Hillside, on Wednesday last, by falling from the deck of a freight car while the train was in motion. A number of cars passed over his body, mangleing it in a terrible manner. His remains were brought to Conemaugh for interment, where a wife and family are left to mourn his sudden death.

The strike of the heaters at the Mill is still in progress, and only a portion of the works are in operation. The “Heaters' Union” claim to have $75,000 in their treasury, and they declare that they will not resume work until their alleged grievances are satisfactorily adjusted; while on the other hand, the managers appear determined to “run the machine” without the assistance of the heaters. Quite a number of employees are thrown out of employment by the existing difficulty.

Capt. S. B. Bathurst, while on a school teacher in this place, but for the past year doing duty in Texas as Captain of the 105th Colored Infantry, paid our town a brief visit last week. The Capt. has been in service over three years, enlisting as a private in the 54th, and promoted as above. His many friends in this locality were glad to see him.

St. Patrick's day—the Irishman's 4th of July—passed off quietly in town. The weather was bitter cold, and consequently the sons of Erin were compelled to celebrate the day within doors. Rev. Brown's lecture came off in the evening, and was well attended. D. D.

ETCHINGS.—The Pittsburg papers state that the reward of $500 offered by the Commissioners of Cambria county for the arrest of Buser and Houser, the murderers of Misses Pollie Paul and Cassie Munday, has been paid over to Chief of Police Hague, of Pittsburg, who was mainly instrumental in effecting the capture of the two men....The “Mansion House” building in Altoona was burned to the ground, with its contents, on Wednesday last.... Last week, on Wednesday, we made mention that the weather was warm and pleasant, and that the voice of the robin and bluebird was heard in the land.... This week, on Tuesday, the ground is covered with snow to the depth of several inches, and the sleighing is excellent.... Four prisoners made their escape from the Indiana jail a few nights since.... Col. Robt. A. McCoy, of the Executive Department at Harrisburg, was in town on Monday.... A pauper named Patrick Collins died at the Poor House on Sunday. He was aged about 50 years....The “fitting” customary at this season of the year has commenced. Mr. Thomas Callan, of the hotel on the southwest corner of the Diamond, removed to Loretto, with his household effects, on Tuesday.... James Morris, convicted in the Cambria county Court of rape six years ago, and sentenced to ten years' imprisonment in the penitentiary, has been pardoned by Gov. Curtin.

SENTENCED.—Jacob Blacklock, convicted at our late Quarter Sessions on the two charges of bigamy and riot, was sentenced by the Court, on Wednesday last, to do penance for his crimes by paying a fine of five dollars and the costs of prosecution and undergoing an imprisonment in solitary confinement, at labor, in the Western Penitentiary for the term of one year, for the first offence, and by paying a fine of five dollars and the costs of prosecution for the second. Sheriff Myers removed the prisoner to his new quarters on Monday.

“CREDIT.”—Did our readers ever notice that the letters composing the word “credit” constitute the initials, in regular order, of the words, “Call Regularly Every Day—I'll Trust!” J. M. Thompson, of the P. O. Store, Ebensburg, does not do a credit business, but sells exclusively for cash. By buying a large stock of goods in the city at a time, and paying for the same cash down, he is enabled to sell, for cash, considerably cheaper than those merchants who buy and sell “on time.” Try him, and see.

CONCERT.—The “Ebensburg Chorus,” under the leadership of Professor John Howells, will give a grand vocal concert in the Court House on Friday evening next, commencing at 7 o'clock. We advise all who can appreciate good music to attend.

DIED.—On Wednesday, 14th instant, at the residence of her father, in Ebensburg, Miss Margaret Evans, eldest daughter of Mr. D. J. Evans, aged about 25 years.

MARRIED.—In Ebensburg, March 17, by Rev. D. Evans, Mr. David T. James and Miss Margaret Powell, both of Ebensburg.

Baltimore, Fairfield County, Ohio, January 31, 1859. Mr. R. E. SELLERS—Dear Sir—I am entirely out of your “Imperial Cough Syrup.” Will you send me, say six dozen, I do not want to be out of it, as it is the only medicine that will come so near raising the dead. It will cure the worst cough immediately: I have recommended it to persons and given them one bottle on trial, and in every case they have given clear testimony that it gave immediate relief.

I have used it in my own family, and find it a sure cure for coughs and colds of all classes. One trial will convince any person that it is a sure cure for the worst of coughs and colds. Yours, etc. A. L. SIMMANS.
