PERSONNEL OF THE NEW YORK PRESS. -James Gordon Bennett is sole owner of the Herald. The Tribune is owned by stockholders, of whom Dr. J. C. Ayer, of Lowell, is the heaviest. Samuel Sinclair, the publisher, is also one of the largest owners, while Stephen T. Clark, the writer of the money articles, and Horace Greely, are interested to a large amount. The capital stock is $800,000. The organization of the Tribune editorial staff is as follows: The editor-in-chief is Horace Greely. Sidney Howard Gay is the managing editor-the executive head of the concern: Roderick Crane is the news editor. J. H. Hasser is the night editor, and I. N. Browne the city editor. The anancial department is under the charge of S. T. Clarke. Solon Robinson edits the department of agriculture. George Ripley, at one time one of the most eloquent of preachers in Boston, is the literary editor. William Winter is the theological, Henry C. Watson the musical, and Clarence Cook the art editor .-The corps of editorial writers embraces such names as Congdon, Smalley, Young, and Wilkinson. A. J. Cummings edits the weekly. Myron Fox reads all copy to prevent repetition in the paper, and D. K. O'Connell keeps the index. In addition, the Tribune has a corps of fifteen reporters, second to none in the land .-The principal owners of the Times are Leonard W. Jerome, James B. Taylor, Henry J. Raymond, George Jones, the publisher, and Christopher Morgan, of Methodist fame. During Mr. Raymond's absence, Thurlow Weed and F. J. Otterson are managing editors. The World is conducted by Manton Marble, who is the largest owner in the concern. Of the younger journalists, there are several of great promise; among them are Thomas A. Kennett, of the World, Daniel K. O'Donnell, of the Tribune, and Augustus Maverick, of the Evening Post. The best editorial writers, and each inimitable in his way, are George Wilkes, of the Spirit of the Times, Sidney Howard Gay and Charles T. Congdon, of the Tribune, Wm. H. Hurlburt, of the World, and Charles Nordhoff, of the Evening Post. The best American political statistician living, connected with the press, is probably Horace TOASTING FORKS, OYSTER BROILERS Greely; the next best is Franklin J. Otferson, of the Times, though Thomas G. Shearman, a lawyer, is a perfect cyclopedia of political knowledge, and is a very useful man for more than one newspaper establishment. The Nation has a subscription of over seven thousand, while the Round Table is holding its own in spite of the bitter criticisms it gives and REMARKABLE TENACITY OF LIFE .-The Shirleysburg Herald relates the following story, vouching for its correctness: About the first of January last, Joshua Morgan, of Cromwell township, Huntingdon county, thrashed a quantity of grain, and threw the straw on a pile in the barnyard. About the same time, a goodsized sow, weighing about two hundred pounds, mysteriously disappeared, and no trace of her could be found. A few days ago, the straw was removed, and the sow was found underneath, standing erect, and still alive, though wasted away to a skelesurface of the pile in the nearest direction, and had worked a small cavity in the straw around her. She had been thus buried four months, less four days. At last account she was doing well, and was expected to recover.

receives. The Independent rolls up the overwhelming list of 60,000 subscribers, and the number is daily increasing.

A GERMANIC JOKE .- In the trans-Atlantic German papers we find many aperdotes of Abraham Lincoln which are not known in this country. The following, which lately appeared in the Breslau Morgenzeitung, will bear repetition: "A Lieutenant, whose debts compelled him to leave his fatherland and service, succeeded in being admitted to the late President Lincoln, and, by reason of his commendable and winning deportment and intelligent appearance, was promised a lieutepant's commission in a cavalry regiment. He was so enraptured with his success, that he deemed it his duty to inform the President that he belonged to one of the oldest noble houses in Germany. "O, never mind that," said old Abe, "you will not find that to be an obstacle to your advancement."

DER VETO .- Hans Spfillein endorses the President's veto of the Freedmen's Bureau Bill. "I dinks der Bresident is right," says he ; "dese eight years und besser, I have kept house, und I nefer had ein pureau in mine blace all der whiles, and I got along shust so besser as good. Now, dey wants all der niggers to | ceps. haf ein bureau, and want to tax der poor beoples to pay for him. Nein!-Ich gestanden by der Bresident!"
