

The Congressional Question.

The following correspondence between Mr. Wm. Lewis, editor of the Huntingdon Globe, and R. L. Johnston, Esq., the Democratic candidate for Congress in this (17th) district, explains itself:—

HUNTINGDON, Sept. 11, 1866. R. L. JOHNSTON, Esq.:

Dear Sir:—As a candidate for Congress, do you endorse the sentiments uttered by the following resolutions unanimously adopted by the National Union Convention, held in Philadelphia, August 14:

Representation in the Congress of the United States and in the electoral college is a right recognized in the Constitution as abiding in every State, and as a duty imposed upon the people, fundamental in its nature, and essential to the existence of our republican institutions, and neither Congress nor the general government has any power or authority to deny this right to any State, or to withhold its enjoyment under the Constitution from the people thereof.

We call upon the people of the United States to elect to Congress, as members thereof, none but men who admit this fundamental right of representation, and who will receive to seats therein loyal representatives from every State in allegiance to the United States, subject only to the Constitutional right of each house to judge of the election, returns, and qualifications of its own members.

An early reply will oblige, Yours, &c., WM. LEWIS.

EBENSBURG, Sept. 15, 1866. WM. LEWIS, Esq.:

Dear Sir:—Your note is before me, and with it the resolutions it refers to. I recognize your right, whether as a voter in my district, or a journalist, to ascertain the views of any candidate offered for your support; and fortunately for me, I am able, without any hesitation, to make you a frank and candid reply.

I need not tell you that if elected and admitted to a seat in Congress, I should be required to take an oath to "support the Constitution of the United States." In that instrument I find that, "the Senate of the United States shall be composed of two Senators from each State,"—and that "Representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several States which may be included within this Union, according to their respective numbers."

And I believe with the late President Lincoln and his Cabinet—with the Congress which inaugurated the war to put down the rebellion and prevent secession;—with the statesmen in the field;—that no State can secede from the Union. All the acts of the Government, in all its departments, were based upon the duty of preserving the "Union of the States."

For this we labored—for this we incurred our enormous debt—for this we gave the lives of our brethren.

That the Union was preserved is not now a matter of argument—it is history. Every Southern State is now moving on peacefully under her own Constitution and laws; while the Judicial Department takes cognizance of every Southern State in the administration of civil and criminal jurisprudence, and the Executive Department collects its proportion of the taxes to pay the National debt, and "takes care that the laws be faithfully executed."

If Mr. Stevens, who embodies the radical idea, were asked how many States are in the Union, even he would unwillingly give the same answer as the student in Geography, "thirty-six." Yet while any radical would make this answer; and while "our flag," the proud emblem of our nationality, flings its thirty six stars to the breeze, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from the lakes to the Gulf—while our gallant tars float the same "starry ensign," on every sea under the Heaven—these same radicals, by refusing them that which makes a State, and without which a State cannot exist, would reduce them to subjugated provinces.

Believing, then, that every State in the South is entitled to two Senators in Congress, and as many members of the House of Representatives as the act of Congress provides, I can at once "subscribe to the sentiments" of the resolutions to which you refer. And while, under that other clause of the Constitution, which makes each House judge of the "qualifications of its own members," I would refuse a seat to any DISLOYAL member and every member refusing to take the oath prescribed by Congress, I would make the disqualification a personal one, and not permit it to impair the rights of a Sovereign State.

Hoping you will excuse the crudeness of the foregoing views, arising from the extreme hurry in which they are written, I remain very respectfully yours, R. L. JOHNSTON.
