next time I came to Albany to come and see you, and find out for sartin. Why, you know me, don't you, Bill ?" I didn't exactly like to ignore his ac- quaintance altogether, but for the life of me I could not recollect having seen him before; and so I replied that he had a familiar countenance, but that I was not able to call him by name. "My name is Jack Smith," answered the backwoodsman, "and we used to go to school together, thirty years ago, in the little red schoolhouse in old Southport.— Well, times have changed since then, and you have become a great man, and got rich, I suppose." I shook my head and was going to con- tradict that impression, when he broke in: "Oh ' yes you are, I know you are rich; no use denying it. You were comptroller for—for a long time; and the next time we heard from you, you were Governor. You must have a heap of money, and I am glad of it—glad to see you getting along so smart.
