

A Tale.

Arthur Bailey was a poet. His hair was long; so was his pipe; so was his tailor's bill.

But it is not a man's love for woman nor woman's love for man. Arthur Bailey had but one intimate. One intimate, who studied his study as he wrote—who shared his breakfast as he ate a cat.

A tall cat, with long legs, and no tail to speak of. A cat with a Roman nose and fat eyes. A cat that cracked when you rubbed her the wrong way.

Her name? It was Mary Jane Worters. Mary Jane, after a person called Mary Jane. Worters, after a person called Worters. Life is crammed with such coincidences.

A CARD.—WITMER'S BLOCK, Lancaster Tp., July 20, 1866. Messrs. EVANS and WATSON: GENTLEMEN. The small size No. 1 Salamander and I purchased from your agent, Mr. Alex. Barr, in Lancaster City, on July 20th, 1866, has been subjected to a very severe fire which it withstood in a most satisfactory manner.

This safe, containing all my papers, together with some of my neighbors' and representing a value of over Twenty thousand Dollars, ($20,000) was in my possession, and was destroyed on the night of the 27th of July, 1866, and passed through the flames unscathed. The safe was on the second and fell to the basement of the Mill, and subjected for six hours to an intense heat, the combustion of a large quantity of confined within the brick walls. After the fire the safe was opened and the books and papers taken out in a state of perfect preservation, the paper not even being discolored. This fact, however, to many buyers a better recommendation of your safe could be expressed in any other words. Yours Respectfully, SAMUEL RANGEL
