MEMORANDA .- Mr. Jas. F. Campbell, formerly editor of the Johnstown Democrat, has purchased and will hereafter conduct the Uniontown Genius of Liberty. .. Governor Geary and family are spending the heated term at Bedford Springs .. and after Monday, Apl. 29, 1867, trains The unprecedented number of 87,724 passengers were carried on the Pennsylvania Railroad on the 4th ... The Lewistown Democrat has been enlarged to a seven-column paper The tailor shop of Jonathan Stouffer, in Hollidaysburg, was robbed of goods to the value of $500 on Sunday night week ... The Mountain House at Cresson is filling up with visitors A little son of Mr. Thos. M'Brien, of this place, fell off a fence on Sunday, and broke an arm The "new county" meeting to be held in Johnstown failed for want of a quorum. We hear that only eight or ten persons put in an appearance at the place of rendezvous at the proposed hour of meeting ... A buggy in which Dr. John Clark, formerly of Ebensburg, and another person were riding, in Pittsburg, was capsized by a runaway butcher cart on Friday last. The occupants were spilled out, but neither was much hurt Our young friend Mr. D. I. Evans, for the last sixteen months a resident of Washington city, is in town on a visit The weather has been extremely hot of late, the thermometer ranging at from 80° to 90° in the shade ... See new advertisements this week.

> A HAPPY COUPLE.-On Sunday last, a man and woman, husband and wife, got on a high old corn-juice batter in Johnstown. The woman, in her frenzy, attempted to commit suicide by drowning. She was not successful in her attempt, however, for some persons near by fished her out before she could become thoroughly water-soaked. After she had been resuscitated, she started in quest of her liege lord, who by this time was missing. She found him in the "jug," behind the bars, where he had been ensconced for kicking up a disturbance. Failing to coax the officers into discharging him, she next tried the virtue of scolding, but was even more unsuccessful in this than in the other, for the officers, not relishing her style of argument, unceremoniously silenced her by sending her to keep her husband company. The twain were kept over night at the expense of the borough corporation, fined, and then discharged.

> WIDE AWAKE .- If you want to discover which merchants of a town will deal most liberally with customers, go seek the columns of the newspaper and see who advertise most extensively. The rule is infallible that they are the men .-Upon looking through the columns of The Alleghanian, the reader would at once decide that V. S. Barker is one of the cheap merchants of Ebensburg. And rightly. His low prices are household words, while his dealings with customers are transacted entirely "on the square." He deserves the heavy patronage he receives.

> BASE BALL .- The Independent club of Johnstown has been dissolved. Price, the pitcher, has joined the Irons A picked nine of the Mountaineers of Ebensburg went to Summit on Saturday afternoon last, to play a practice game with the Monitors of the latter place. The weather was delightful, the game a good one, and all concerned enjoyed themselves highly....The Stars and Tiogas (junior clubs of Ebensburg) played a match game on Saturday last. The Stars won by 10 runs. Score, 49 to 59.

> ACCIDENT .- A man named Day attempted to step from the platform of one passenger car to that of another, a short distance below Johnstown, on Sunday last, while the train was under full headway. He missed his footing and fell, and was badly hurt. He was removed to Johnstown.

HARVEST .- The hay crop in this section has been barvested, and the unanimous testimony of the farmers is that the yield is very large, larger even than that of last year. The wheat crop, now being garnered, is heavy. The later cereals all

TEMPERANCE ASSOCIATION .- A temperance convention, to form a county temperance association for Cambria county, will meet in Johnstown next Monday, 29th instant.

LITERARY.

Home, July 22, 1867.

To the Editor of The Alleghanian : In Mr. Cyrus Elder's lately published AHLED .- A distressing accident | booklet of poems, I find (p. 30) the following

"Dear wife, our state is far from great, But then our care is small." Now, I am not very well posted on such mat-Esq. The unfortunate man ters, but I would ask if this is not a plagiating down the railroad, and had rism on a line in the celebrated Irish song,

"Nora McShane," which runs-'Tis true I've no money, but then I've no sorrow."

It looks to me as if it squinted a little in the direction indicated.

CHANGE .- "Times change, and men change with them ;" but there is no change in the long-established reputation of the mercantile establishment of A. A. Barker, Ebensburg. It is now, as it was always, reckoned among the cheapest and fairest houses in town-one where it is a pleasure to barter or buy. If the reader has never had dealings there, he has been strangely indifferent to his own interests. But we don't believe there is a man living within fifteen miles of town who is not a customer of Mr. B.

WHY DID HE Do IT?-Some person, with the fear of neither God nor the law in his heart, robbed a tailor shop in Hollidaysburg of a quantity of ready-made clothing the other night. Why did he do it? If he had come to Ebensburg and visited J. M. Thompson's store, he could have bought ready-made clothing, as good as the best, at prices so low as to make it no inducement to steal.

SELLING OFF AT REDUCED PRICES .-Mesars. Mills & Davis are selling off their present stock of goods at reduced prices, preparatory to removing to their new store-room, now nearly completed, on the corner of High and Center streets. Persons desiring bargains ought to call on them, and soon. Call to-day!
