AN INQUISITIVE YANKEE .- A COTTE- A. BRADLEY. W. VANKIRK. JNC. S BRADLEY. spondent writing from Newport, R. I., relates the following: Hon. Duncan C. Pell, who was Lieutenant Governor of this State last year, is a man of consider- COOK, PARLOR AND HEATING STOVES. able eccentricity of character-a whole souled, good hearted man, but decidedly odd in many respects. Nothing so much disturbed his equanimity as for persons to exhibit a curious disposition, and attempt to learn more of his affairs than he whose to tell. Many years ago, Mr. Pell concluded to erect a fence around one of his lots in the city, and in order to save himself from the daily interrogatorics which he knew would be made by his neighbors and passers-by, he had a sign painted, on FLOUR. which he displayed all the information in regard to the tence which he fancied could possibly be demanded or desired .-He gave full information on the following points: Who was the owner of the land; why he fenced it in; how much lumber the fence was to contain; where he bought it, and how much a foot he paid for it; the quantity of nails to be used; the name of the builder, and the feb21.1y] exact amount of land to be enclosed .-Self-satisfied that he had answered all the questions that could be asked, Mr. Pell was quite happy in the idea that he had freed himself entirely from impertinent inquiries.

But one night, or rather very early on an exceedingly disagreeable morning, Mr. Pell was awakened from a deep sleep by a loud knocking at his front door. The call appeared to be so urgent that Mr. Pell thrust his head out of the window and demanded, in no gentle tone, "What in h-ll's the matter !'

"Does Mr. Pell live here?" came from the intruder below.

"Yes. What do you want?" "Mr. Duncan C. Pell ?"

"Yes; Duncan C. Pell." "Is it the Mr. Pell who is building the fence on Mary street?"

"Yes-the same. What of it?" "Well, Mr. Duncan C. Pell, will you be kind enough to inform me whether you intend painting that fence or white-washing it?" The answer and the window went down together, and Mr. Pell went back to bed, satisfied that there could be no escape on earth from Yankee inquisitiveness.

ALL FOR A DANCE .- "I believe a woman would do a great deal for a dance," said Dr. Growling. "I remember once in my life," he went on to say, "that I used | wm. m. cook. to flirt with one who was a great favorite in a provincial town where I lived, and who confided to me that she had no stock- PROVISIONS, FLOUR, SALT, CHEESE, ings fit to wear, and without them her appearance at a certain ball was out of feb21] the question."

"That was a hint for you to buy the JAS. W. RIDDLE, stockings," said Dick.

"No-you're out," quoth Growling .-"She knew that I was as poor as herself; but, though she could not rely on my purse, she had every confidence in my taste and judgment, and consulted me on ball in the proper trim. Now, what do SMITH & SELTZER, you suppose it was?" "To go in cotton, I suppose," ventured

"Out again, sir-you'd never guess it, and only a woman would have hit upon the expedient. It was the fashion in those days for ladies in full dress to wear her legs that color." "Painting her legs!" exclaimed one and all, in horror.

carried out her proposition to the letter. After she had painted the stockings, she came to me to ask if the cheat was successful. Of course I told her it was .-But the little chit boxed my ears for one remark I made. 'Jennie,' said I, 'for fear your stockings should fall down while you are dancing, suppose I paint a pair of garters to them !"

AN IRISHMAN'S LETTER .- The followis a true copy of a letter received from across the water:

My Dear Nephew-I have not heard anything from ye sens the last time I wrote ye. I have moved from the place where I live now or I should have written to you before. I did not kno where a letter might find you first, but I now take orders. my pen in hand to drop you a few lines to inform ye of the deth of your own liven uncle Kilpatrick. He died very suddenly after a long lingering illness of six months. Poor man he suffered a great deal. He lay a long time in convulsions, perfectly speechless, all the time talking incoherently and inquiring for water. I am very much at a loss to tell ye what his death is occasioned at, but the doctor thinks it was occasioned by his last sickness for he was not well ten days at a time during his confinement. His age ye kno jist as well as I can tell ye-He was jan24] twenty-five years old last March lacking fifteen menths and if he had lived till this time he would have been six months died jest.

N. B.-Take notis I enclose a tin pound note which yer father sends to you unbeknone to me. Your mither often spakes of ye-she wud like to send you the brindle cow and I would enclose to ye but for | Orders promptly filled.

I beg of ye not to break the sale of this letter until two or three days after ye read it, for which time ye'll be better prepared for the sorrowful news.

PAT O'BRANIGAN.

"In short, ladies and gentlemen," said an overpowered orator, "I can only saybeg leave to add-I desire to assure you, that I wish I had a window to my bosom, that you might see the emotions of my heart."
