

A Lesson to Learn.

From all parts of the country come reports of the excellent condition of the summer crops. Already, in many parts of the South, the harvest has begun.

There is one thing that delivers the farmer from this condition of affairs—that one thing is the presence of manufacturing industry. Were we to-day importing nothing from Europe that we could successfully manufacture ourselves, wheat and other grains would be bringing from fifteen to forty per cent. more than they now do.

The Hon. Henry J. Raymond, founder and editor of the New York Times, died suddenly of apoplexy, at his residence in New York, on Friday morning last.

EDITORIAL ETCHINGS.

Mum—the Tem. Vindicator. Read new advertisements. The question—will we celebrate the 4th? We have had wet weather the past week.

A lady called recently at the office of the Newport, Rhode Island, News, and paid for the paper to be sent to a neighbor, who had troubled her so much by borrowing it that she took this method of getting rid of the nuisance.
