

She (to salesman): "Have you buttoned boots?"
 Salesman: "Yes, Miss; what number will you have?"

She: "What number! Why, two, of course, you idiot. Do you take me for a centipede, or a one-legged war veteran?"

He, who courts and runs away,
 May live to court another day;
 But he who courts and will not wed,
 May find himself in court instead.—E. r.

SOCIETY AND FRATERNITY COLUMN.

The Keystone Chapter of the Q, T. V. Fraternity was established at the Pennsylvania State College in 1884. Regular meetings are held every Friday night in a commodious hall, nicely fitted out, situated in the village. Several very promising young men of this fraternity have graduated at this institution and are holding high positions in the vocations of life. A chapter was lately established at Cornell and the inaugural ceremonies were conducted in a creditable manner.

This being a new feature of the FREE LANCE to give space to Society and Fraternity news we will take this opportunity to send greetings to our alumni brothers.

Theta Nu Epsilon Sophomore Society was established at the Pennsylvania State College in May, 1888. The chapter is well organized and bids fair to hold its rank among the chapters of the society.

Thirteen of the fifty fraternity men in Congress are members of the Beta Theta Pi. Daniel W. Voorhees, Mathew S. Quay and Charles J. Faulkner are members of the Senate. William M. Springer, Robert R. Hitt, Jacob G. Pughsley, William E. Fuller, William Elliott, John M. Allen, John M. Glover, Courtland C. Matson, William D. Bynum and Jonas G. Howard, are members of the House of Representatives. Among the present Governors, James A. Beaver, and Mr. Francis (lately elected) are ardent Betas. The fraternity was organized in 1839, at Miami University. It has fifty-one chapters in good standing and a very loyal alumni; its club house, Wooglin-on-

Chautauqua, is the resort of many of the alumni members, as well as active members of the fraternity who spend the summer months there in a very pleasant manner.

Fou Ypsilon Tset, a local college fraternity, was organized at the Pennsylvania State College, November 5, 1888; it has at present ten members. The college now has chapters of the Greek, Latin, and German letter fraternities.
