Miss Ruth Barnes, one of Philipsburg's attractive young ladies, spent a few days, last week, at the home of her friend Miss Stuart, in the village.

The world is rolling on and we are glad to notice that the population of State College is keeping even pace with it.

Miss Katie Gossler, of Columbia, Pa., has for some time, been visiting her sister, Mrs. Lieut Pague. We are glad to learn that she will remain until after commencement.

COLLEGE ORBIT.

The Cornell crew, row eight miles a day regular.

Columbia has a Fencing Club of twenty-five members;

Lafayette expects to start a course in Electrical Engineering,—P. S. C., already has one.—Ed.

Yale issues five periodical publications, Harvard and Princton four, and Cornell three.

Amherst Syracuse and De Pauw have organized College Senates. At De Pauw it has superseded the literary societies.

One hundred thousand dollars is being raised to endow a chair of Protection in Yale, to combat the Free Trade theories advanced by Professor Sumner.

Sixteen colleges and universities in the United States are without presidents.

A course of Electrical Engineering is about to be started at Princeton. A hall will be built especially for that department. The theological department of the new Catholic University, in Washington, will open this Fall.

Last year fully 200 men at Harvard had physical developments, according to Dr. Sergeant's measurements, exceeding that of the best developed man in 1880.

Omega Pi, a new society at Columbia, is so secret that it is impossible for outsiders to learn who belongs to it.

Swarthmore and Rutgers have been among the most fortunate colleges in receiving large gifts during the past year; the former has added $185,000 to its endowment and the later $160,000.

Chauncey M. Depew, '54, will deliver the annual address at the Yale Law School Commencement this year.

Ex-Governor Pillsbury, the flour magnate of Minneapolis has just given the Minnesota State University the sum of $150,000.

There are ninety-five graduates of other colleges studying at Harvard.

Ten thousand students are at present at tending the university at Cairo, Egypt.

William and Mary College is to be re-opened, after a long period of inactivity, as a State Normal School.

The University of Wisconsin has recently built a new scientific hall, at an expense of $270,000.

Cornell etiquette requires that no lady recognize a gentleman acquaintance on the university grounds.