our engineering students in order that the Journal may be a success, we hope that the students in general will aid them by handing in their subscriptions.

During the term three committees from the Legislature have visited and inspected our college. The third and last differed from the two previous ones inasmuch as it was entirely a voluntary committee composed of some forty members of both the Senate and House who, wishing to know for themselves the workings of the college, took the trouble and pains to come and see. They were shown through the various buildings, and after dining at the Hotel de Greeb were escorted to the Chapel, where all the students were assembled. Senator Critchfield and Representative Morrel delivered short addresses, after which the committee adjourned to the campus to see the Battalion drill. After various evolutions the cadets were given the command "Parade Rest" when they were addressed by Colonel Montour. Soon after the committeewere driven to Lemont where they took the train for Harrisburg.
