

last game of foot-ball, invite him to your Thanksgiving assembly, and the circulation of the FREE LANCE and LA VIE will increase abundantly. Show by your actions, not talk, that you desire to have the influence and good will of the student of by gone days.

The pennant is yours P. S. C. and I am proud of the fact. It shows that our old College is not only pushing to the front as a first class institution of learning but that she is earning an enviable position in the athletic world. The team and the management deserve great credit for the successful manner in which they have closed the season, and I hope that next season I shall have the same opportunity for offering my congratulations.

Why can you not do something this winter in the line of indoor and field sports.

There is no reason whatever why you should not have from three to four representatives at every inter collegiate meeting for indoor and field sports. I know you have the material at the College and all it wants is developing.

'94. P. P. Sturdevant has quit his studies at the College on account of his eyes failing him. He expects to be able to resume his studies after the holidays.

Ex '92. Miss Mary Roop visited friends at the College a few days during the last of November.

'95. W. P. Brew, of Ridgeway, visited his home, Bellefonte, and also spent a few days at the College, a short time since.

—We have noticed the announcement of the engagement of H. C. Quigley, Esq., ex-'90 of Bellefonte, and Miss Merriman of New York. We tender him our hearty congratulations.

'89. John S. Weller, Esq., of Hyndman was admitted to practice as an attorney in the several courts of Bedford county, on Monday, Sept. 7th. The committee which examined Mr. Weller was selected from the best informed members of the bar. The chairman of the committee on making the report stated that the examination had been severe, vigorous and thorough and that the successful manner in which the test was withstood was exceedingly gratifying and pleasing. The members of the committee were all profuse in their words of commendation. We print the following complimentary notice from the Hyndman Bulletin :

BEDFORD, Pa., Sept. 7, 1891.

Editor Bulletin.—John S. Weller of your town was this day formerly admitted to practice law in the several courts of this county. This simple announcement ordinarily, would be sufficient in such cases, but the examination of Mr. Weller was close, rigid and exhaustive, being the first to pass through the ordeal of the "higher standard of examination" which has lately been introduced by the court to elevate the character fitness of future candidates. In the language of Mr. Kerr, chairman of the committee, on moving his admission, "he acquitted himself in the examination most admirably." Possessed of a keen, vigorous, and analytical intellect, molded, refined and cultured by thorough educational acquirements, the prophecy is apparent, that the future will open to the young gentleman a career crowned with laurels and distinction.

[Mr. Weller, who is known to everybody in Hyndman is one of the deserving young men who succeeds through and by merit's. He after making good use of his school days at home and having shown more than ordinary ability secured the appointment to State College where he took the regular course of that institution, graduating with honor. On his return he chose the study of law and set to work with his usual vim with the success the above article shows. May he ever succeed is our wish.] Ed.

'86. H. B. McDonald is taking a post graduate course in Chemistry and Mineralogy at Johns Hopkins university.

'84. James W. Alexander, who has been practicing law for more than a year has been suffering from a severe attack of Typhoid fever.
