

—The dynamo which was wound for Mr. Greenwood by the students in the Physical and Electrical department of the college in the fall of '91, has been used until recently in lighting the shops of the Huntingdon and Broad Top railroad at Rock Hill furnace. Some time ago the armature burned out, due it was thought to the engine not governing well. The armature was returned to the department, rewound and shipped back March 1st.

—For several weeks past, the secretaries of the literary societies have been in correspondence with some gentlemen from the University of Pennsylvania. A joint meeting was held on the evening of February 21st in Washington Hall when it was announced that the college had been invited, through the literary societies, to join an oratorical league of the colleges of the State. It was voted that the invitation be accepted, and W. A. Silliman,, was chosen to represent the college at the first meeting, to be held Saturday, February 25th, at Philadelphia. A pleasant informal reception was tendered the visiting delegates by the two literary societies the evening before. Men were present from Lafayette, Lehigh, Haverford, Swarthmore, Dickinson, Franklin and Marshall, and Pennsylvania State College, making eight colleges represented including the University of Pennsylvania. Next morning at 10, the meeting was called; and, after a little, preliminary discussion, a temporary organization was effected. After deciding that the vote should be taken by colleges, the meeting passed into a committee of the whole to draw up a constitution. Quite spirited discussions were held on several points; but, after three hours hard work, the regular meeting was resumed and the constitution adopted as read. Election of officers was then proceeded with. Mr. Emhardt, of the University, was unanimously elected President. Mr. Klem, of Franklin and Marshall, became Vice President, Mr. Carver, of Swarthmore, Secretary, and the Treasurership went to the delegate from Dickinson. According to the constitution, Mr. Emhard and Mr. Carver became ex-officio members of the Executive Committee. The other three men chosen were Mr. Chambers, Lafayette, Mr. Merrill, Lehigh, and Mr. Silliman, State. As it was well past dinner time, the meeting was adjourned, and all except the Executive Committee said their good byes and separated for their homes. The committee, after refreshing the inner man, met at 3.00 to draw up the by-laws. They worked for several hours, but finally came to the conclusion that there were so many points that needed discussion and mature deliberation that it would be better to postpone the matter to a future date, and the meeting was adjourned after attending to the immediate business on hand. All the delegates speak highly of the University men, and Mr. Silliman desires through the "FREE LANCE," to thank them for the many kindnesses shown him. Space forbids the publishing of details in this issue. Suffice to say that the first contest will be held at Philadelphia on the night of the State Sports and that quite a sum will probably be realized from it as it is likely that the University musical organizations will be present and help to make it a complete success.
