

graduate work of our great universities is done, whether it be at Philadelphia or Pittsburg or here.

Again it appears to me that such education must be offered equally to men and women. I do not think it at all necessary that co-education should be conducted at every stage with male and female students in the same classes. It may be better where the classes are large, and particularly in large cities where the supervision of students is more difficult, that there should be separate classes for girls and boys in the freshmen, sophomore and junior years. This may conveniently be provided for by special colleges annexed to the university. What is needed is that there should be an equal extension of college facilities to girls and boys. It seems further that when the students have shown themselves of tried and established character and have gained for themselves the confidence of the faculties, they may take their work together without any risk or detriment, in the senior classes and in all post-graduate studies, for here the personal relations grow less and the purpose and spirit grow stronger.

So that, granted an education is both practical and liberal, that it is freely offered alike to all without privilege of class, sex or color, but subject solely to conditions of character and capacity, it appears to me that there is no cause before the community to-day which has a stronger and more urgent claim for liberal support.

I cannot tell you how happy I am to have been with you to-day, to see the evidence of the splendid growth that State College is making, and to add my mite of testimony and whatever influence my voice may have, to strengthen the hold it has taken upon the people. I shall be more happy if in any small way I have aided in the efforts that are being made by the Board and the Faculty of your college in asserting the claims of the institution until the fullest recognition, shall have been accorded to the importance, nay, the vital necessity of the work you are doing.

FOOT BALL.

Tooth Picks 0, Tumblers 14.

The foot-ball season opened with a game between the Toothpicks and the Tumblers, on Beaver Field, Sept. 29th. Washington and Jefferson was scheduled to play on our home grounds, but failing to keep their date, the FREE LANCE management arranged a game between the Longs, or Toothpicks, and the Shorts, or Tumblers. The admission was placed at a low figure, and the proceeds were for the benefit of the LANCE. The Tumblers, though of considerable less stature than the Toothpicks, played an offensive game throughout. They were valiantly captained by that sturdy player W. J. Moore, of Altoona, while H. T. Price, of Allegheny, directed the movements of the Toothpicks.

The game consisted of thirty minute halves, while the audience of five hundred kept up a continuous storm of applause. The star players of the Tumblers were Moore, Kelker, Rice and Bullard, while Price, Eby, Bone and Menner distinguished themselves as the champions of the Toothpicks.

The brilliant dashes by Rice, and Kelker's fierce attacks on the Toothpick's line as well as his magnificent run of fifty yards were prominent features of the game.

Although the Toothpicks played well and were valuably assisted by the splendid tackling of Eby and Bone, they were no match for the unrivalled team-work of the Tumblers.
