On Monday, April 22nd. Our students were both surprised and delighted to see in a prominent place in the Philadelphia Press a large headline State's Great Game. We were well acquainted with the score, but no one imagined that the Philadelphia papers would come out and give us any credit for the great game our boys played. Their usual custom of excusing our victories by calling them happy accident, fluke, etc., was so settled that no one expected to see our fellows given credit. The New York papers also gave State full credit for the fine game she had put up. The following is taken from the Philadelphia Press:

STATE'S GREAT GAME.

Princeton, April 20.—The Pennsylvania State College baseball team gave the Tigers an exceedingly close shave to-day and it was only after a most exciting ten inning contest that Princeton succeeded in winning, to the tune of 4 to 3. The game was the most hotly contested one that Princeton has played this year and it was anybody's game until Easton knocked his home run in the latter half of the tenth inning.
