

TWO ARMS.

'Twas a Boston maid I was calling on,
 And I thought I'd put on a bluff,
 So I spoke of Latin poetry,
 For I know she liked such stuff.
 But she wasn't so slow as you might suppose,
 In spite of her learning immense,
 When I asked what Latin poem
 Best expressed her sentiments.
 For the Boston maid, who in classic shade,
 Was supposed to defy Love's charms,
 Just hung her head and demurely said:
 "I sing of men and of arms." — Yale Record.

We notice that our old friend, the FREE LANCE comes out very strongly in Feb. number against the wearing of caps and gowns. We hardly agree in the view taken. We hold that a little sentiment mixed in with our practical ideas is a good thing. We shall hardly get enough to hurt us.—
