THE opening of the term found nearly all the old students back in their places after an altogether too short vacation, but all good things must come to an end. The Christmas holidays, although a happy period for almost everyone, seem to furnish for none more enjoyment than to the college student. After a long and tedious term, a rest of a few weeks is certainly of great benefit, and the time spent in pleasure is only for the recuperation of our tired out bodies.

With the reunion of our old schoolmates who attend various colleges throughout the country the time usually passes quickly enough, and not until the last train leaves do we find ourselves en route for college.
