

the words of Lincoln, hope that the government of the people, by the people, and for the people, may not perish from the earth." For the maintenance of that end, let each one put forth his best efforts to save America. The Jewel is in our keeping. Will we keep it untarnished and add to its luster, or will its brilliance be smirched by our guardianship? These are questions, pertinent to everyone. In the words of Wendell Philips:—

“Who shall say then, contemplating the past, that England, proud and potent as she now appears, may not, one day, be what Athens is; and the young America yet soar to be what Athens was? Who shall say that when the European column shall have mouldered and the night of barbarism obscures its very ruins, that mighty continent may not emerge from the horizon, to rule for its time, sovereign of the Ascendant.”
