

meeting in the Chapel at which short addresses were made by Dr. Atherton and members of the party. All expressed themselves as well pleased with what they saw and heard.

—Friday evening, April 26, the Cadet Band gave a stag dance in the Armory. The crowd was not as large as it should have been but still the affair was a success.

—The Junior Mechanicals, accompanied by Prof. Griffin, took a trip to Altoona Wednesday and Thursday, May 1 and 2, and went through the P. R. R. shops at that place. The company very kindly furnished Mr. H. Meredith as a guide for the party.

—Wallace Calder, ex-'92, spent a few days visiting old friends at this place.

—A complete account of State's two inter-collegiate debates will appear in the next LANCE.

ALUMNI NOTES

—I. P. McCreary, '82, who is Supervisor of the Tyrone and Clearfield Division of the Penna. R. R., has been suffering a prolonged illness at his home in Osceola.

—John H. Yocum, '91, of Newark, N. J., was married April 11, 1901 to Miss Florence Knapp at Deposit, N. Y.

—Nelson M. Lloyd, '92. Evening Editor of the New York Sun, whose "Chronic Loafer" was one of the notable successes of last year, has in press a new novel with a Pennsylvania back ground which will appear during the summer or early autumn.

—F. T. Beers, '98, chemist with the Climax Powder Company, of Emporium, has recently been promoted with a considerable advance in salary.

—A letter from James S. Sloane, '95, Spokane, Washington, states that he expects to visit the College at the coming Commencement. His friends will be pleased to meet him as he was formerly an instructor at this place.