

were the features of the game. State had only two errors. P. R. R. was last at the bat, and had a fair chance of winning, for they had a man on first, and third but Miller caught the man on first off the base, and had him in a box. The man on third bit easily, and started home; Warn threw home, and Huber put the runner out at the plate. Then Sharpe gathered in a fly back of third base; Miller took care of the next batsman's hit, and the game was over with State the winner. The State team deserves a great deal of praise for having put up one of the greatest games of the season. They met foemen worthy of better steel than theirs, and defeated them in as fair and clean a contest as was ever seen on a diamond. A spectator summed up the general opinion of all who saw the game when he said, "it was one of the prettiest games I ever saw," and it may be added that the spectator in question has seen many ball games.
