

—Northwestern University celebrated Founder's day on January 28th, when the new professional school building, costing over $900,000, was dedicated. President Hadley, of Yale University, delivered the dedicatory address.

—Prof. J. Long, of Northwestern University, was elected President of the American Chemical Society, succeeding President Ira Remsen, of Johns Hopkins University.

—Mr. Carnegie has intimated to the provost of Greenock that he is prepared to present to a properly constituted authority in the town the sum of $50,000, to defray the cost of the erection of a memorial to James Watt.

—The Board of Trustees of Hamline University, Minneapolis, announces that an endowment of $250,000 has been raised for the university, principally in Minnesota. Messrs. J. Hill and M. G. and J. S. Norton, of Winona, gave large sums.

—Professor Lehmann-Hohenberg has been dismissed from his chair at the University of Kiel, Germany, for criticising the courts. We do not know how far its action has been warranted, but it appears somewhat remarkable that the disciplinary court should state that university professors, being officers of the government, are not permitted to criticize the government.

E. K. MCDOWELL.

In the Brunonian, for January, we notice an article, "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray," concerning Pinero's drama of that title. The writer discusses with considerable of ability the technique of the play, and Mrs. Tanqueray's character, as portrayed in the drama. In concluding the article he touches upon the moral tone of the drama and other plays of them ilk.
