

- Fortnightly Review. V. 73. 1903.
 Forum. V. 34. 1903.
 Harper's Magazine. V. 106. 1903.
 Independent. V. 54. 1903.
 McClure's Magazine. V. 1 to 20. 1893, 1903.
 Nineteenth Century. V. 53. 1903.
 North American Review. V. 176. 1903.
 Outing. V. 41. 1903.
 Outlook. V. 73. 1903.
 Public Opinion. V. 33. 1903.
 Review of Reviews. V. 27. 1903.
 Scribner's Magazine. V. 33. 1903.
 World's Work. V. 5. 1903.
 Zeitschrift fur Analytical Chemie. V. 41. 1902.

---

ALUMNI NOTES.

C. N. FENSTERMACHER.

—Albert W. Oakwood, '00, died January 5, '04, at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Kathryn Scheyer, in Washington, D. C., his death being due to constitutional tuberculosis, from which he had suffered over two years.

Mr. Oakwood was born in Tyrone, November 22, 1876. He was graduated from the Tyrone High School in 1896, after which he entered "State," from which he was graduated as a mechanical engineer in June, 1900. Shortly after his graduation he secured a position with the Buffalo Forge Company, at Buffalo, N. Y. From here he went to the Pennsylvania Iron Works Co. at Philadelphia, and finally to the Republic Iron and Steel Co. at Youngstown, Ohio. Here he contracted catarrhal malarial fever about two years ago. In the hope of regaining his health he went to Colorado and New Mexico, but returned to Tyrone in April,