

State 11, Dickinson 0

line. Yeckley carried the ball in the next three plays and the scene of hostilities was advanced to Dickinson's 10 yard line. Smith carried the ball four yards onward. McGee made two charges and took the oval over the line on the last try, amid the greatest enthusiasm ever seen at a game in Williamsport. Saunders missed the goal. Score—5 to 0.

STATE'S RUSHES IRRESISTIBLE

The fortunes of the contest shifted back and forth half a dozen times in the space of 50 yards, and then State, on a sudden resolution, as it seemed, settled down to hard work. The ball came into State's possession on its 45 yard mark. Steady and irresistible rushes worked the ball to Dickinson's 30 yard line, where the Red and White made a last desperate stand and forced a punt. The ball went low and shot into the line, where Wray got it for State on Dickinson's 40 yard line. Starting at this point the Blue and White bucked its rivals relentlessly east, McGee doing herculean work. A run by McGee carried the ball 11 yards, Wray got six, and McIlveen three. With the ball three yards from Dickinson's goal there was no restraining the enthusiastic crowd that surrounded the players, and Referee Young called a halt while he endeavored to provide a proper playing space. In the excitement State lined up and pushed Yeckley over for a touchdown. The score was not allowed, however, but McGee carried the ball over just the same in the next play. Saunders kicked the goal, and the score stood 11 to 0. The game ended shortly thereafter.

From an expert point of view it is conceded that State outplayed Dickinson at every turn. At all times State showed itself superior in rudimentary football and generalship. State's offense didn't run smoothly in the first half, when fumbling and hesitation over signals showed up the assault, but the decided superiority of the kicking game more than gave State the balance of power. Every time an exchange of punts occurred it showed the Blue and White to have made large inroads into Dickinson's territory. McIlveen's punting was for consistently long distances and served splendidly to hold the Red and White at better than even terms until State got its attack in working order.

DAVIS PLAYED DIRTY BALL

There was considerable ill-feeling engendered between the players of the two elevens during the game. This was principally due to the rough house tactics employed by Tackle Davis of Dickinson, who apparently seized every opportunity to play dirty ball. Late in the second half Davis was ordered out of the game. Dickinson put in numerous subs in the second half in an effort to stem the tide of defeat, but the fresh players did not hinder State's implacable men.

After the game 800 State students rushed impetuously onto the field and carried their warriors to the dressing rooms. Dickinson, undaunted by defeat, did the same for its heroes. Each contingent had a band, and these tuneful aggregations set the pace, but eventually were lost in the uproar.

The teams lined up as follows:

Side-line Notes.

Yeckley played a magnificent game.

McIlveen's punting was par excellence: Davis wasn't in his class.

"Tom" Fennell saw the game and congratulated the boys.

Yeckley would have had a touchdown to his credit, if the referee had not been busy throwing a Dickinson rooster over the railing.

"Rough-house" was in every play.

"Cal" Waller hasn't forgotten his job as water boy.

It was commonly reported after the game that certain Dickinson enthusiasts had nothing left but their return tickets.

Saunders used good judgment in running the team, and got the plays off fast.

Every time State got close to Dickinson's goal line, the Dickinson band played "Goodby, My Blue Bell!" We wonder why!

Seely was the main stay of the Dickinson team, and Wray held him as well as any man could.

Ammerman, Dickinson's centre last year, seemed to take the result very much to heart.
