Friday Nov. 18th, was a gala day for State College. It was the occasion of the dedication of the magnificent Carnegie Library and also Pennsylvania Day. Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie, Mr. and Mrs. Schwab, Governor Pennypacker, Deputy Attorney General Fleitz and State Librarian Montgomery were among the notable guests in attendance. Coming by way of Lemont, on Thursday evening, in Mr. Schwab's special car "Loretto" the party were driven up and were met by the cadet battalion at Centre Furnace and escorted to Dr. Atherton's residence.

After dinner most of the distinguished guests retired to their rooms, but quite a few visited the various fraternity houses where dancing was in full swing.

The exercises commenced promptly at 9.30 a. m. in the Auditorium on Friday with the Invocation by Dr. Gill. Mr. Thos L. Montgomery, State Librarian, then delivered a very eloquent address on "Pennsylvania Libraries and their Relation to Education." Owing to unavoidable delay in returning the manuscript we are not able to reproduce either Mr. Montgomery's speech or Mr. Fleitz's very able address on "Pennsylvania" which directly followed Mr. Montgomery's.

In introducing Governor Pennypacker President Atherton spoke as follows:—

ing present with us this morning one whom we all respect for his high official position as well as for his personal character.

"The Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania occupies a position of more influence, in some respects, than did the President of the United States at the time when the constitution of the United States was framed in Philadelphia. The state of Pennsylvania alone has much more than twice the number of inhabitants that all the thirteen colonies then had; it has many times more wealth; it has a variety of industries that were then unknown, it has thousands of multifar-
