Freshmen Win Debate.

The annual inter-class debate for the Atherton prize of $30.00 was held in the Old Chapel Saturday evening, March 25. The Senior and Junior classes had dropped out of the contest, and only the Sophomores and Freshmen remained to compete. The question "Resolved, That it would be wise for the United States to abandon the protective tariff at this time," was discussed pro and con with clearness and vigor by both sides, the Sophomore team upholding the Affirmative and the Freshmen team defending Negative. Each speaker was allowed twelve minutes for his first argument and five minutes for rebuttal.

It would be unfair to all the speakers to say that one spoke better than the other. Each did well and it was the most exciting and interesting debate that has been held in State College for some time.

After the arguments and rebuttals, the judges, Professors W. M. Garver, J. M. Willard, and E. W. Runkle, retired for consultation and brought in a majority decision in favor of the Negative. The speakers were, on the Affirmative, C. R. Stahl, J. M. McDowell, and C. V. Woodward; on the Negative, W. F. H. Wentzel, R. M. Remick, and H. M. Braucher.

Refreshments will be served; there will be plenty to smoke and lots of "State" enthusiasm will be on hand,
