

C. P. Stewart.

A great damper has been put on the festivities on account of the sudden and very sad death of C. P. Stewart of the class of 1906 and a member of the Phi Gamma Delta Fraternity. It was but last Thursday when he was among us in the seemingly best of health. On Thursday evening while studying for his final exam for the next day he was suddenly taken ill. On Saturday evening, after enduring two days of indescribable pain he was placed under the knife. Although his condition Saturday evening was very low he appeared to rally somewhat Sunday morning and hopes for his recovery were raised among his classmates. However, along in the afternoon he began sinking and in the evening at about the time he was scheduled to appear in a violin duet in the sacred concert, he died.

It is impossible to describe the grief among his classmates with whom his popularity was unusually great. He took a very active part in college affairs, having served as vice-president of his class, vice-president of the Y. M. C. A., lieutenant of the battalion, leader of the College orchestra, artist on this year's La Vie, chairman of the Junior Assembly Committee, and in several other positions of honor. There is not a man in State to-day whose ideals and morals were higher. Very sociable, pleasant, and unassuming, he won the hearts and confidence of every one with whom he came in contact, a fact to which his college record will testify. To him vanity was a total stranger: no false pride ever entered into his character. Who can say one thing about him but what it is of a noble nature? Where can we find another like him? Why was not one of us taken in his place? In these words of the immortal Shakespeare we may with truth say—"This was a man."

Appropriate funeral services were held in the Auditorium at eleven o'clock

Monday morning. The cadet battalion acted as escort to the train. Six members of the Phi Gamma Delta Fraternity and four of the class of 1906 accompanied the body to Pittsburg where the funeral will be held on Wednesday afternoon.

1906 Resolutions.

WHEREAS, It has pleased God, in his infinite wisdom, to remove from our class Clark Plumer Stewart, we the members of 1906 feel that we have sustained the loss of a dear comrade, highly esteemed for his many qualities, his sturdy christianity, his loyalty to his college, and his devotion to the class, be it

RESOLVED, That while we humbly bow to the Divine will, we deeply mourn the loss of our friend, comrade, and classmate

Resolved, That we offer our most heartfelt sympathy to all who have known and loved him and especially to the dear father and mother,

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of the deceased and entered on the minutes of the class.

Alumni Athletics.

It is customary for earlier Athletes to feel like disporting themselves on the grounds of their former contests and this year ample opportunity will be given for this this afternoon. The students of to-day will have a chance to see some the stars that have made State's athletics the envy of our neighboring colleges. The following is the program.

Philochorean Dance.

The Philochorean dance held in McAllister Hall Monday night was very successful from every point of view. About 150 couples tripped the light fantastic to the excellent music furnished by the Comstock Orchestra from Milton, Pa. The hall was very simply and tastily decorated with potted plants and the effect produced was very pleasing. Mr. Housel, the caterer for McAllister Hall furnished the refreshments. The program consisted of twenty dances and four extras, besides numerous encoers. All those who attended the dance were unanimous in their belief that this was the most enjoyable Philochoreans held in the history of the college. Owing to an unpardonable plunder of the engravers furnished an unweilding red program. The program ordered was of about one-half the size of the one used.

While the Philochorean dance was being held in McAllister Hall, the various fraternities were holding dances in the chapter houses. As usual, these proved to be brilliant social functions.
