

"One" on the Professors.

One time when Dr. Henry Philip Tappan was President of the University of Michigan, he was suddenly called out of town; before leaving, he requested Professor Brunnow, who had married his daughter and was an inmate of his family, to find some member of the faculty to take his place at morning prayers, next day. Thereupon Professor Brunnow visited several professors, and his first question to each of them was, with his German use of the consonants, "Professor, can you pray?"

Athletes Live Long.

Dr. William G. Anderson, director of the Yale gymnasium, has obtained data to prove that athletes, at least Yale athletes, do not die younger than non-athletic persons. In support of his theory he says of 761 athletes who competed in meets in the years between 1855 and 1904 only 51 died since graduation.
